POEMS

And all thy glory loves to tell
Of specious gifts material.

Drop down, O fleecy Fog ! and hide
Her sceptic sneer, and all her pride.

Wrap her, O Fog ! in gown and hood
Of her Franciscan Brotherhood.

Hide me her faults, her sin and blame ;
With thy grey mantle cloak her shame !

So shall she, cowlèd, sit and pray
Till morning bears her sins away.

Then rise, O fleecy Fog ! and raise
The glory of her coming days ;

Be as the cloud that flecks the seas
Above her smoky argosies.

When forms familiar shall give place
To stranger speech and newer face ;

When all her throes and anxious fears
Lie hushed in the repose of years ;

When Art shall raise and Culture lift
The sensual joys and meaner thrift,

And all fulfilled the vision, we
Who watch and wait shall never see—

Who, in the morning of her race,
Toiled fair or meanly in our place—

But, yielding to the common lot,
Lie unrecorded and forgot.

THE ANGELUS

Heard at the Mission Dolores, 1868

BELLS of the Past, whose long-forgotten
music

Still fills the wide expanse,
Tingeing the sober twilight of the Present
With colour of romance :

I hear your call, and see the sun descending
On rock and wave and sand,
As down the coast the Mission voices blending

Girdle the heathen land

Within the circle of your incantation
No blight nor mildew falls ;
Nor fierce unrest, nor lust, nor low ambition
Passes those airy walls.

Borne on the swell of your long waves receding,

I touch the farther Past—
I see the dying glow of Spanish glory,
The sunset dream and last !

Before me rise the dome-shaped Mission towers
The white Presidio ;
The swart commander in his leathern jerkin,
The priest in stole of snow.

6 THE MOUNTAIN HEART'S-EASE

Once more I see Portala's cross uplifting
 Above the setting sun ;
And past the headland, northward, slowly drifting
 The freighted galleon.

O solemn bells ! whose consecrated masses
 Recall the faith of old—
O tinkling bells ! that lulled with twilight
 music
 The spiritual fold !

Your voices break and falter in the darkness—
 Break, falter, and are still ;
And veiled and mystic, like the Host descending,
 The sun sinks from the hill !

THE MOUNTAIN HEART'S-EASE

By scattered rocks and turbid waters shifting,
 By furrowed glade and dell,
To feverish men thy calm, sweet face uplifting,
 Thou stayest them to tell

The delicate thought, that cannot find expression,
 For ruder speech too fair,
That, like thy petals, trembles in possession,
 And scatters on the air.

The miner pauses in his rugged labour,
And, leaning on his spade,
Laughingly calls unto his comrade-neighbour
To see thy charms displayed ;

But in his eyes a mist unwonted rises,
And for a moment clear,
Some sweet home face his foolish thought surprises
And passes in a tear.

Some boyish vision of his Eastern village,
Of uneventful toil,
Where golden harvests followed quiet tillage
Above a peaceful soil :

One moment only ; for the pick, uplifting,
Through root and fibre cleaves,
And on the muddy current slowly drifting
Are swept thy bruised leaves.

And yet, O poet ! in thy homely fashion
Thy work thou dost fulfil ;
For on the turbid current of his passion
Thy face is shining still.

GRIZZLY

COWARD—of heroic size,
In whose lazy muscles lies
Strength we fear and yet despise ;
Savage—whose relentless tusks
Are content with acorn husks ;
Robber—whose exploits ne'er soared
O'er the bee's or squirrel's hoard ;
Whiskered chin, and feeble nose,
Claws of steel on baby toes—
Here, in solitude and shade,
Shambling, shuffling, plantigrade,
Be thy courses undismayed !

Here, where Nature makes thy bed,
Let thy rude, half-human tread
Point to hidden Indian springs,
Lost in ferns and fragrant grasses,
Hovered o'er by timid wings,
Where the wood-duck lightly passes,
Where the wild bee holds her sweets—
Epicurean retreats,
Fit for thee, and better than
Fearful spoils of dangerous man.

In thy fat-jowled deviltry
Friar Tuck shall live in thee ;
Thou mayst levy tithe and dole ;
Thou shalt spread the woodland cheer,
From the pilgrim taking toll ;
Match thy cunning with his fear ;
Eat, and drink, and have thy fill ;
Yet remain an outlaw still !

MADROÑO

CAPTAIN of the Western wood,
Thou that apest Robin Hood !
Green above thy scarlet hose
How thy velvet mantle shows ;
Never tree like thee arrayed,
Oh, thou gallant of the glade !

When the fervid August sun
Scorches all it looks upon,
And the balsam of the pine
Drips from stem to needle fine,
Round thy compact shade arranged,
Not a leaf of thee is changed !

When the yellow autumn sun
Saddens all it looks upon,
Spreads its sackcloth on the hills,
Strews its ashes in the rills,
Thou thy scarlet hose dost doff,
And in limbs of purest buff,
Challengest the sombre glade
For a sylvan masquerade.

Where, oh ! where, shall he begin
Who would paint thee, Harlequin ?
With thy waxen burnished leaf,
With thy branches' red relief,
With thy poly-tinted fruit,
In thy spring or autumn suit—
Where begin, and oh ! where end—
Thou whose charms all art transcend ?

COYOTE

BLOWN out of the prairie in twilight and dew,
Half bold and half timid, yet lazy all through ;
Loath ever to leave, and yet fearful to stay,
He limps in the clearing—an outcast in grey.

A shade on the stubble, a ghost by the wall
Now leaping, now limping, now risking a fall,
Lop-eared and large-jointed, but ever alway
A thoroughly vagabond outcast in grey.

Here, Carlo, old fellow—he's one of your kind—

Go, seek him, and bring him in out of the wind.

What! snarling, my Carlo! So—even dogs may

Deny their own kin in the outcast in grey.

Well, take what you will—though it be on the sly,

Marauding, or begging—I shall not ask why ;
But will call it a dole, just to help on his way

A four-footed friar in orders of gray.

TO A SEA-BIRD

Santa Cruz, 1869

SAUNTERING hither on listless wings,
Careless vagabond of the sea,
Little thou heedest the surf that sings,
The bar that thunders, the shale that rings—
Give me to keep thy company.

Little thou hast, old friend, that's new ;
Storms and wrecks are old things to thee ;
Sick am I of these changes too ;
Little to care for, little to rue—
I on the shore, and thou on the sea.

All of thy wanderings, far and near,
Bring thee at last to shore and me ;
All of my journeyings end them here,
This our tether must be our cheer—
I on the shore, and thou on the sea.

Lazily rocking on ocean's breast,
Something in common, old friend, have we !
Thou on the shingle seek'st thy nest,
I to the waters look for rest—
I on the shore, and thou on the sea.

HER LETTER

I'm sitting alone by the fire,
Dressed just as I came from the dance,
In a robe even you would admire—
It cost a cool thousand in France ;
I'm be-diamonded out of all reason,
My hair is done up in a cue :
In short, sir, ' the belle of the season '
Is wasting an hour on you.

A dozen engagements I've broken ;
I left in the midst of a set ;
Likewise a proposal, half spoken,
That waits—on the stairs—for me yet.
They say he'll be rich—when he grows up—
And then he adores me indeed.
And you, sir, are turning your nose up,
Three thousand miles off as you read.

' And how do I like my position ? '
' And what do I think of New York ? '
' And now, in my higher ambition,
With whom do I waltz, flirt, or talk ? '
' And isn't it nice to have riches, \
And diamonds and silks, and all that ? '
' And aren't it a change to the ditches
And tunnels of Poverty Flat ? '

Well, yes—if you saw us out driving
Each day in the park, four-in-hand—
If you saw poor dear mamma contriving
To look supernaturally grand—

If you saw papa's picture, as taken
By Brady, and tinted at that—
You'd never suspect he sold bacon
And flour at Poverty Flat.

And yet, just this moment, when sitting
In the glare of the grand chandelier—
In the bustle and glitter befitting
The 'finest soirée of the year'—
In the mist of a gaze de Chambéry,
And the hum of the smallest of talk—
Somehow, Joe, I thought of the 'Ferry'
And the dance that we had on 'The Fork':

Of Harrison's barn, with its muster
Of flags festooned over the wall;
Of the candles that shed their soft lustre
And tallow on head-dress and shawl;
Of the steps that we took to one fiddle;
Of the dress of my queer vis-à-vis;
And how I once went down the middle
With the man that shot Sandy M'Gee;

Of the moon that was quietly sleeping
On the hill, when the time came to go;
Of the few baby peaks that were peeping
From under their bedclothes of snow;
Of that ride—that to me was the rarest;
Of—the something you said at the gate:
Ah, Joe! then I wasn't an heiress
To 'the best-paying lead in the State'.

Well, well, it's all past ; yet it's funny
 To think, as I stood in the glare
 Of fashion and beauty and money,
 That I should be thinking, right there,
 Of some one who breasted high water,
 And swam the North Fork, and all that,
 Just to dance with old Folinsbee's daughter,
 The Lily of Poverty Flat !

But goodness ! what nonsense I'm writing !
 (Mamma says my taste still is low)
 Instead of my triumphs reciting,
 I'm spooning on Joseph, heigh-ho !
 And I'm to be 'finished' by travel—
 Whatever's the meaning of that—
 Oh ! why did papa strike pay gravel
 In drifting on Poverty Flat ?

Good-night—here's the end of my paper ;
 Good-night—if the longitude please—
 For may be, while wasting my taper,
Your sun's climbing over the trees.
 But know, if you haven't got riches,
 And are poor, dearest Joe, and all that,
 That my heart's somewhere there in the ditches,
 And you've struck it—on Poverty Flat.

DICKENS IN CAMP

ABOVE the pines the moon was slowly drifting,
 The river sang below ;
 The dim Sierras, far beyond, uplifting
 Their minarets of snow.

The roaring camp-fire, with rude humour, painted

The ruddy tints of health

On haggard face and form that drooped and fainted

In the fierce race for wealth.

Till one arose, and from his pack's scant treasure

A hoarded volume drew,

And cards were dropped from hands of listless leisure

To hear the tale anew ;

And then, while round them shadows gathered faster,

And as the firelight fell,

He read aloud the book wherein the Master
Had writ of ' Little Nell '.

Perhaps 'twas boyish fancy—for the reader
Was youngest of them all—

But, as he read, from clustering pine and cedar

A silence seemed to fall ;

The fir-trees, gathering closer in the shadows

Listened in every spray,

While the whole camp with ' Nell ' on English meadows

Wandered, and lost their way.

And so in mountain solitudes—o'ertaken

As by some spell divine—

Their cares drop from them like the needles shaken

From out the gusty pine.

Lost is that camp, and wasted all its fire ;
 And he who wrought that spell ?—
Ah, towering pine and stately Kentish spire,
 Ye have one tale to tell !

Lost in that camp ! but let its fragrant story
 Blend with the breath that thrills
With hop-vines' incense all the pensive glory
 That fills the Kentish hills.

And on that grave where English oak and holly
 And laurel wreaths entwine,
Deem it not all a too presumptuous folly—
 This spray of Western pine.

July, 1870.

WHAT THE ENGINES SAID

Opening of the Pacific Railroad

WHAT was it the Engines said,
Pilots touching—head to head,
Facing on the single track,
Half a world behind each back ?
This is what the Engines said,
Unreported and unread.

With a prefatory screech,
In a florid Western speech,
Said the Engine from the WEST,
' I am from Sierra's crest ;
And, if altitude's a test,
Why, I reckon, it's confessed,
That I've done my level best '.

Said the Engine from the EAST,
' They who work best talk the least.
S'pose you whistle down your brakes ;
What you've done is no great shakes—
Pretty fair—but let our meeting
Be a different kind of greeting.
Let these folks with champagne stuffing,
Not their Engines, do the puffing.

' Listen ! Where Atlantic beats
Shores of snow and summer heats ;
Where the Indian autumn skies
Paint the woods with wampum dyes—
I have chased the flying sun,
Seeing all he looked upon,
Blessing all that he has blest,
Nursing in my iron breast
All his vivifying heat,
All his clouds about my crest ;
And before my flying feet
Every shadow must retreat '.

Said the Western Engine, ' Phew ! '
And a long, low whistle blew.
' Come now, really that's the oddest
Talk for one so very modest.
You brag of your East ! You do ?
Why, I bring the East to you !
All the Orient, all Cathay,
Find through me the shortest way ;
And the sun you follow here
Rises in my hemisphere.
Really—if one must be rude—
Length, my friend, ain't longitude.'

18 'THE RETURN OF BELISARIUS'

Said the Union, 'Don't reflect, or I'll run over some Director'.
Said the Central, 'I'm Pacific;
But, when riled, I'm quite terrific.
Yet to-day we shall not quarrel,
Just to show these folks this moral,
How two Engines—in their vision—
Once have met without collision'.

That is what the Engines said,
Unreported and unread;
Spoken slightly through the nose,
With a whistle at the close.

'THE RETURN OF BELISARIUS'

Mud Flat, 1869

So you're back from your travels, old fellow,
And you left but a twelvemonth ago:
You've hobnobbed with Louis Napoleon,
Eugenie, and kissed the Pope's toe.
By Jove! it is perfectly stunning,
Astounding, and all that, you know:
Yes, things are about as you left them
In Mud Flat a twelvemonth ago.

The boys!—They're all right—Oh! Dick Ashley,
He's buried somewhere in the snow;
He was lost on the Summit, last winter,
And Bob has a hard row to hoe.

You knew that he's got the consumption?
You didn't! Well, come, that's a go:
I certainly wrote you at Baden—
Dear me! that was six months ago.

I got all your outlandish letters,
All stamped by some foreign P.O.
I handed myself to Miss Mary
That sketch of a famous château.
Tom Saunders is living at 'Frisco—
They say that he cuts quite a show.
You didn't meet Euchre-deck Billy
Anywhere on your road to Cairo?

So you thought of the rusty old cabin,
The pines, and the valley below;
And heard the North Fork of the Yuba,
As you stood on the banks of the Po?
'Twas just like your romance, old fellow;
But now there is standing a row
Of stores on the site of the cabin
That you lived in a twelvemonth ago.

But it's jolly to see you, old fellow—
To think it's a twelvemonth ago!
And you have seen Louis Napoleon,
And look like a Johnny Crapaud.
Come in. You will surely see Mary,
You know we are married. What, no?
Oh, ay! I forgot there was something Between you a twelvemonth ago.

' TWENTY YEARS '

BEG your pardon, old fellow ! I think
I was dreaming just now, when you spoke.
The fact is, the musical clink
Of the ice on your wine-goblet's brink
A chord of my memory woke.

And I stood in the pasture-field where Twenty summers ago I had stood ;
And I heard in that sound, I declare,
The clinkings of bells on the air,
Of the cows coming home from the wood.

Then the apple-blooms shook on the hill ;
And the mullein-stalks tilted each lance ;
And the sun behind Rapalye's mill
Was my uttermost West, and could thrill
Like some fanciful land of romance.

Then my friend was a hero, and then
My girl was an angel. In fine,
I drank buttermilk ; for at ten Faith asks less to aid her, than when
At thirty we doubt over wine.

Ah well, it does seem that I must Have been dreaming just now when you spoke,
Or lost, very like, in the dust
Of the years that slow fashioned the crust
On that bottle whose seal you last broke.

Twenty years was its age, did you say ?
Twenty years ? Ah, my friend, it is true !
All the dreams that have flown since that day,
All the hopes in that time passed away,
Old friend, I've been drinking with you !

FATE

' THE sky is clouded, the rocks are bare ;
The spray of the tempest is white in air ;
The winds are out with the waves at play,
And I shall not tempt the sea to-day.

' The trail is narrow, the wood is dim.
The panther clings to the arching limb ;
And the lion's whelps are abroad at play,
And I shall not join in the chase to-day '.

But the ship sailed safely over the sea,
And the hunters came from the chase in glee ;
And the town that was builded upon a rock
Was swallowed up in the earthquake shock.

IN DIALECT

IN DIALECT

‘ JIM ’

SAY, there ! P'r'aps
Some on you chaps
Might know Jim Wild ?
Well—no offence :
Thar ain't no sense
In gettin' riled !

Jim was my chum
Up on the Bar :
That's why I come
Down from up yar,
Lookin' for Jim..
Thank ye, sir ! You
Ain't of that crew—
Blest if you are !

Money ?—Not much ;
That ain't my kind :
I ain't no such.
Rum ?—I don't mind,
Seein' it's you.

' JIM '

Well, this yer Jim,
Did you know him?—
Jess 'bout your size;
Same kind of eyes?—
Well, that is strange:
 Why, it's two year
 Since he came here,
Sick, for a change.

Well, here's to us:
 Eh?
The h—— you say!
 Dead?—
That little cuss?

What makes you star—
You over thar?
Can't a man drop
's glass n yer shop
But you must rar'?
 It wouldn't take
 D—— much to break
You and your bar.

Dead!
Poor—little—Jim!
—Why, thar was me,
Jones, and Bob Lee,
Harry and Ben—
No-account men:
Then to take him!

Well, thar—Good-bye—

No more, sir—I—

Eh ?

What's that you say ?—

Why, dern it !—sho !—

No ? Yes ! By Jo !

Sold !

Sold ! Why, you limb,

You ornery,

Derned old

Long-legged Jim !

CHIQUITA

BEAUTIFUL ! Sir, you may say so. Thar isn't her match in the county.

Is thar, old gal—Chiquita, my darling, my beauty ?

Feel of that neck sir,—thar's velvet ! Whoa !
Steady—ah, will you, you vixen !

Whoa ! I say. Jack, trot her out ; let the gentleman look at her paces.

Morgan !—She ain't nothin' else, and I've got the papers to prove it.

Sired by Chippewa Chief, and twelve hundred dollars won't buy her.

Briggs of Tuolumne owned her. Did you know
Briggs of Tuolumne ?

Busted hisself in White Pine, and blew out his brains down in 'Frisco ?

Hedn't no savey—hed Briggs. Thar, Jack !
that'll do—quit that foolin' !

Nothin' to what she kin do, when she's got her work cut out before her.

Hosses is hosses, you know, and likewise, too,
jockeys is jockeys ;

And 'tain't ev'ry man as can ride as knows what a hoss 'as got in him.

Know the old ford on the Fork, that nearly got Flanigan's leaders ?

Nasty in daylight, you bet, and a mighty rough ford in low water !

Well, it ain't six weeks ago that me and the Jedge and his nevey

Struck for that ford in the night, in the rain,
and the water all round us ;

Up to our flanks in the gulch, and Rattlesnake
Creek just a bilin',

Not a plank left in the dam, and nary a bridge on the river.

I had the grey, and the Jedge had his roan, and his nevey, Chiquita ;

And after us trundled the rocks jest loosed from the top of the cañon.

Lickity, lickity, switch, we came to the ford ;
and Chiquita

Buckled right down to her work, and, afore I could yell to her rider,

Took water jest at the ford ; and there was the Jedge and me standing,

And twelve hundred dollars of hoss-flesh afloat,
and a driftin' to thunder !

Would ye b'lieve it ? that night that hoss, that ar' filly, Chiquita,
Walked herself into her stall, and stood there,
all quiet and dripping :
Clean as a beaver or rat, with nary a buckle of harness,
Just as she swam the Fork—that hoss, that ar'
filly, Chiquita.

That's what I call a hoss ! and—What did you say ?—Oh ! the nevey ?
Drownded, I reckon—leastways, he never kem back to deny it.
Ye see, the derved fool had no seat—ye couldn't have made him a rider ;
And then, ye know, boys will be boys, and hosses
—well, hosses is hosses !

DOW'S FLAT

1856

Dow's FLAT. That's its name
And I reckon that you
Are a stranger ? The same ?
Well, I thought it was true,
For thar isn't a man on the river as can't spot
the place at first view.

It was called after Dow—
Which the same was an ass ;
And as to the how
Thet the thing kem to pass—
Jest tie up your hoss to that buckeye, and sit ye down here in the grass :

You see, this 'yer Dow
Hed the worst kind of luck :
He slipped up somehow
On each thing thet he struck.
Why, if he'd a straddled thet fence-rail, the derned thing 'ed get up and buck.

He mined on the bar
Till he couldn't pay rates ;
He was smashed by a car
When he tunnelled with Bates ;
And right on the top of his trouble kem his wife and five kids from the States.

It was rough—mighty rough ;
But the boys they stood by,
And they brought him the stuff
For a house, on the sly ;
And the old woman—well, she did washing, and took on when no one was nigh.

But this yer luck of Dow's
Was so powerful mean,
That the spring near his house
Dried right up on the green ;
And he sunk forty feet down for water, but nary
a drop to be seen.

Then the bar petered out,
And the boys wouldn't stay ;
And the chills got about,
And his wife fell away ;
But Dow, in his well, kept a peggin' in his usual ridikilous way.

One day—it was June—

And a year ago, jest—

This Dow kem at noon

To his work like the rest,

With a shovel and pick on his shoulder, and a derringer hid in his breast.

He goes to the well ;

And he stands on the brink,

And stops for a spell

Jest to listen and think :

For the sun in his eyes (jest like this, sir !),
you see, kinder made the cuss blink.

His two ragged gals

In the gulch were at play,

And a gownd that was Sal's

Kinder flapped on a bay ;

Not much for a man to be leavin', but his all—as I've heer'd the folks say.

And—That's a peart hoss

Thet you've got—ain't it now ?

What might be her cost ?

Eh ? Oh !—Well, then, Dow—

Let's see—well, that forty-foot grave wasn't his, sir, that day, anyhow.

For a blow of his pick

Sorter caved in the side ;

And he looked, and turned sick,

Then he trembled and cried.

For, you see, the dern cuss had struck—

'Water?'—Beg your parding, young man,
there you lied !

It was gold—in the quartz,
 And it ran all alike ;
 And I reckon five oughs
 Was the worth of that strike ;
 At that house with the coopilow's his'n—
 which the same isn't bad for a Pike.

Thet's why it's Dow's Flat ;
 And the thing of it is,
 That he kinder got that
 Through sheer contrairiness :
 For 'twas water the derved cuss was seekin',
 and his luck made him certain to miss.

Thet's so. Thar's your way
 To the left of yon tree ;
 But—a—look h'yur, say ?
 Won't you come up to tea ?
 No ? Well, then the next time you're passin' ;
 and ask after Dow—and thet's me.

IN THE TUNNEL

DIDN'T know Flynn—
 Flynn of Virginia—
 Long as he's been 'yar ?
 Look'ee here, stranger,
 Whar hev you been ?

Here in this tunnel
 He was my pardner,

That same Tom Flynn—
Working together,
In wind and weather,
Day out and in.

Didn't know Flynn !
Well, that is queer ;
Why, it's a sin
To think of Tom Flynn—
Tom with his cheer,
Tom without fear—
Stranger, look 'yar !

Thar in the drift,
Back to the wall,
He held the timbers
Ready to fall ;
Then in the darkness
I heard him call :
' Run for your life, Jake !
Run for your wife's sake !
Don't wait for me.'
And that was all
Heard in the dim,
Heard of Tom Flynn—
Flynn of Virginia.

That's all about
Flynn of Virginia.
That lets me out.
Here in the damp—
Out of the sun—
That 'ar derved lamp
Makes my eyes run.
Well, there—I'm done !

But, sir, when you'll Hear the next fool
 Asking of Flynn—
 Flynn of Virginia—
 Just you chip in,
 Say you knew Flynn;
 Say that you've been 'yar.

'CICELY'

Alkali Station

CICELY says you're a poet; may be; I ain't much on rhyme;
 I reckon you'd give me a hundred, and beat me
 every time.
 Poetry!—that's the way some chaps put up an idee,
 But I takes mine 'straight without sugar', and that's what's the matter with me.

Poetry!—just look round you—alkali, rock,
 and sage;
 Sage-brush, rock, and alkali: ain't it a pretty page?
 Sun in the east at mornin', sun in the west at night,
 And the shadow of this 'yer station the on'y thing moves in sight.

Poetry!—Well now—Polly! Polly, run to your mam;

Run right away, my pooty! By by! Ain’t she a lamb?

Poetry!—that reminds me o’ suthin’ right in that suit:

Jest shet that door thar, will yer?—for Cicely’s ears is cute.

Ye noticed Polly—the baby? A month afore
she was born,

Cicely—my old woman—was moody-like and forlorn;

Out of her head and crazy, and talked of flowers and trees:

Family man yourself, sir? Well, you know what a woman be’s.

Narvous she was, and restless—said that she ‘couldn’t stay’.

Stay—and the nearest woman seventeen miles away.

But I fixed it up with the doctor, and he said
he would be on hand;

And I kinder stuck by the shanty, and fenced
in that bit o’ land.

One night—the tenth of October—I woke with a chill and fright,

For the door it was standing open, and Cicely
warn’t in sight;

But a note was pinned on the blanket, which it said that she ‘couldn’t stay’,

But had gone to visit her neighbour—seventeen miles away!

When and how she stampeded, I didn't wait for to see,
For out in the road, next minit, I started as wild as she ;
Running first this way and that way, like a hound that is off the scent,
For there war't no track in the darkness to tell me the way she went.

I've had some mighty mean moments afore
I kem to this spot—
Lost on the plains in '50, drowned almost,
and shot ;
But out on this alkali desert, a hunting a crazy wife,
Was ra'ly as on-satis-factory as anything in my life.

'Cicely ! Cicely ! Cicely !' I called, and I held my breath ;
And 'Cicely !' came from the canyon—and all
was as still as death.
And 'Cicely ! Cicely ! Cicely !' came from the rocks below ;
And jest but a whisper of 'Cicely !' down from them peaks of snow.

I ain't what you call religious ; but I jest looked up to the sky.
And—this 'yer's to what I'm coming, and may be ye think I lie.
But up away to the east'ard, yaller and big and far,
I saw of a suddent rising the singlerist kind of star.

Big and yaller and dancing, it seemed to beckon
to me ;

Yaller and big and dancing, such as you never see ;

Big and yaller and dancing—I never saw such a star ;

And I thought of them sharps in the Bible,
and I went for it then and thar.

Over the brush and bowlders I stumbled and pushed ahead :

Keeping the star afore me, I went wharever
it led.

It might hev been for an hour, when, suddent
and peart and nigh,

Out of the yearth afore me thar riz up a baby’s cry.

Listen ! thar’s the same music ; but her lungs
they are stronger now

Than the day I packed her and her mother—
I’m derved if I jest know how.

But the doctor kem the next minit ; and the joke o’ the whole thing is,

That Cis never knew what happened from that very night to this !

But Cicely says you’re a poet ; and may be you might, some day,

Jest sling her a rhyme ’bout a baby that was born in a curious way.

And see what she says ; and, old fellow, when you speak of the star, don’t tell

As how ’twas the doctor’s lantern—for may be ’twon’t sound so well.

PENELOPE

Simpson's Bar, 1858

So you've kem 'yer agen,
And one answer won't do ?
Well, of all the derved men
That I've struck, it is you.
O Sal ! 'yer's that derved fool from Simpson's,
cavortin' round 'yer in the dew.

Kem in, ef you will.
Thar,—quit ? Take a cheer.
Not that ; you can't fill
Them theer cushings this year—
For that cheer was my old man's, Joe Simpson, and they don't make such men about 'yer.

He was tall, was my Jack,
And as strong as a tree.
Thar's his gun on the rack—
Just you heft it, and see.
And you come a courtin' his widder. Lord !
where can that critter, Sal, be ?

You'd fill my Jack's place ?
And a man of your size—
With no baird to his face,
Nor a snap to his eyes—
And nary—Sho ! thar ! I was foolin'—I was,
Joe, for sartain—don't rise.

Sit down. Law ! why, sho !
I'm as weak as a gal,
Sal ! Don't you go, Joe,
Or I'll faint—sure, I shall.
Sit down—anywheer, where you like, Joe—in that cheer, if you choose—Lord, where's Sal ?

PLAIN LANGUAGE FROM TRUTHFUL JAMES

WHICH I wish to remark—
And my language is plain,
That for ways that are dark,
And for tricks that are vain,
The heathen Chinee is peculiar—
Which the same I would rise to explain.

Ah Sin was his name.
And I shall not deny
In regard to the same
What that name might imply ;
But his smile it was pensive and childlike,
As I frequent remarked to Bill Nye.

It was August the third ;
And quite soft was the skies :
Which it might be inferred
That Ah Sin was likewise ;
Yet he played it that day upon William
And me in a way I despise.

Which we had a small game,
And Ah Sin took a hand ;
It was euchre. The same
He did not understand ;
But he smiled as he sat by the table,
With the smile that was childlike and bland.

Yet the cards they were stocked
In a way that I grieve.
And my feelings were shocked
At the state of Nye's sleeve :
Which was stuffed full of aces and bowers,
And the same with intent to deceive.

But the hands that were played
By that heathen Chinee,
And the points that he made,
Were quite frightful to see.—
Till at last he put down a right bower,
Which the same Nye had dealt unto me.

Then I looked up at Nye,
And he gazed upon me ;
And he rose with a sigh,
And said ' Can this be ?
We are ruined by Chinese cheap labour ' ;
And he went for that heathen Chinee.

In the scene that ensued
I did not take a hand ;
But the floor it was strewed
Like the leaves on the strand
With the cards that Ah Sin had been hiding,
In the game ' he did not understand '.

In his sleeves, which were long,
He had twenty-four packs—
Which was coming it strong,
Yet I state but the facts ;
And we found on his nails, which were taper,
What is frequent in tapers—that's wax.

Which is why I remark,
And my language is plain,
That for ways that are dark,
And for tricks that are vain,
The heathen Chineese is peculiar—
Which the same I am free to maintain.

THE SOCIETY UPON THE STANISLAUS

I RESIDE at Table Mountain, and my name
is Truthful James,
I am not up to small deceit, or any sinful games ;
And I'll tell in simple language what I know about the row
That broke up our society upon the Stanislow.

But first I would remark, that it is not a proper plan
For any scientific gent to whale his fellow-man,
And, if a member don't agree with his peculiar whim,
To lay for that same member for to ' put a head ' on him.

Now, nothing could be finer or more beautiful to see
Than the first six months' proceedings of that same society,
Till Brown of Calaveras brought a lot of fossil bones
That he found within a tunnel near the tenement of Jones.

Then Brown he read a paper, and he reconstructed there,
From those same bones, an animal that was extremely rare;
And Jones then asked the Chair for a suspension of the rules,
Till he could prove that those same bones was one of his lost mules.

Then Brown he smiled a bitter smile, and said he was at fault.
It seemed he had been trespassing on Jones's family vault:
He was a most sarcastic man, this quiet Mr
Brown;
And on several occasions he had cleaned out
the town.

Now, I hold it is not decent for a scientific gent
To say another is an ass—at least, to all intent:
Nor should the individual who happens to be meant
Reply by heaving rocks at him to any great extent.

Then Abner Dean of Angel's raised a point of order—when
A chunk of old red sandstone took him in the abdomen ;
And he smiled a kind of sickly smile, and curled up on the floor,
And the subsequent proceedings interested him no more.

For, in less time than I write it, every member did engage
In a warfare with the remnants of a palæo-zoic age ;
And the way they heaved those fossils in their anger was a sin,
Till the skull of an old mammoth caved the head of Thompson in.

And this is all I have to say of these improper games :
For I live at Table Mountain, and my name
is Truthful James ;
And I've told in simple language what I know about the row
That broke up our society upon the Stainislow.

JOHN BURNS OF GETTYSBURG

HAVE you heard the story that gossips tell
Of Burns of Gettysburg? No? Ah, well!
Brief is the glory that hero earns,
Briefer the story of poor John Burns:
He was the fellow who won renown—
The only man who didn't back down
When the rebels rode through his native town.
But held his own in the fight next day,
When all his townsfolk ran away.
That was in July, sixty-three,
The very day that General Lee,
Flower of Southern chivalry,
Baffled and beaten, backward reeled
From a stubborn Meade and a barren field.
I might tell how, but the day before,
John Burns stood at his cottage door,
Looking down the village street,
Where, in the shade of his peaceful vine,
He heard the low of his gathered kine,
And felt their breath with incense sweet;
Or I might say, when the sunset burned
The old farm gable, he thought it turned

The milk, that fell in a babbling flood
Into the milk-pail, red as blood !
Or how he fancied the hum of bees
Were bullets buzzing among the trees.
But all such fanciful thoughts as these
Were strange to a practical man like Burns,
Who minded only his own concerns,
Troubled no more by fancies fine
Than one of his calm-eyed, long-tailed kine—
Quite old-fashioned and matter-of-fact,
Slow to argue, but quick to act.
That was the reason, as some folk say,
He fought so well on that terrible day.

And it was terrible. On the right
Raged for hours the 'heady fight,
Thundered the battery's double bass—
Difficult music for men to face ;
While on the left—where now the graves
Undulate like the living waves
That all that day unceasing swept
Up to the pits the rebels kept—
Round shot ploughed the upland glades,
Sown with bullets, reaped with blades ;
Shattered fences here and there
Tossed their plinters in the air ;
The very trees were stripped and bare ;
The barns that once held yellow grain
Were heaped with harvests of the slain ;
The cattle bellowed on the plain,
The turkeys screamed with might and main,
And brooding barn-fowl left their rest
With strange shells bursting in each nest.

Just where the tide of battle turns,
 Erect and lonely stood old John Burns.
 How do you think the man was dressed ?
 He wore an ancient long buff vest,
 Yellow as saffron—but his best ;
 And buttoned over his manly breast
 Was a bright blue coat, with a rolling collar,
 And large gilt buttons—size of a dollar—
 With tails that the country-folk called ‘ swaller ’.

He wore a broad-brimmed, bell-crowned hat,
 White as the locks on which it sat.
 Never had such a sight been seen
 For forty years on the village green,
 Since old John Burns was a country beau,
 And went to the ‘ quiltings ’ long ago.

Close at his elbows all that day,
 Veterans of the Peninsula,
 Sunburnt and bearded, charged away ;
 And striplings, downy of lip and chin—
 Clerks that the Home Guard mustered in—
 Glanced, as they passed, at the hat he wore,
 Then at the rifle his right hand bore ;
 And hailed him, from out their youthful lore,
 With scraps of a slangy repertoire :

‘ How are you, White Hat ! ’ ‘ Put her through ! ’
 ‘ Your head’s level ’ and ‘ Bully for you ! ’
 Called him ‘ Daddy ’—begged he’d disclose
 The name of the tailor who made his clothes,
 And what was the value he set on those ;

While Burns, unmindful of jeer and scoff,
Stood there picking the rebels off—
With his long brown rifle, and bell-crown hat,
And the swallow-tails they were laughing at.

'Twas but a moment, for that respect
Which clothes all courage their voices checked ;
And something the wildest could understand
Spake in the old man's strong right hand ;
And his corded throat, and the lurking frown
Of his eyebrows under his old bell-crown ;
Until, as they gazed, there crept an awe
Through the ranks in whispers, and some men saw,
In the antique vestments and long white hair,
The Past of the Nation in battle there ;
And some of the soldiers since declare
That the gleam of his old white hat afar,
Like the crested plume of the brave Navarre,
That day was their oriflamme of war.

So raged the battle. You know the rest :
How the rebels, beaten, and backward pressed,
Broke at the final charge, and ran.
At which John Burns—a practical man—
Shouldered his rifle, unbent his brows,
And then went back to his bees and cows.

That is the story of old John Burns ;
This the moral the reader learns :
In fighting the battle, the question's whether You'll show a hat that's white, or a feather !

THE TALE OF A PONY

NAME of my heroine, simply 'Rose';
Surname, tolerable only in prose;
Habitat, Paris—that is where
She resided for change of air;
Ætat. xx. ; complexion fair,
Rich, good-looking, and debonnaire,
Smarter than Jersey-lightning—There!
That's her photograph, done with care.

In Paris, whatever they do besides,
EVERY LADY IN FULL DRESS RIDES!
Moire antiques you never meet
Sweeping the filth of a dirty street;
But every woman's claim to ton
Depends upon
The team she drives, whether phaeton,
Landau, or britzka. Hence it's plain
That Rose, who was of her toilet vain,
Should have a team that ought to be Equal to any in all Paris!

'Bring forth the horse!'—The commissaire
Bowed, and brought Miss Rose a pair
Leading an equipage rich and rare:
'Why doth that lovely lady stare?'
Why? The tail of the off grey mare
Is bobbed—by all that's good and fair!
Like the shaving brushes that soldiers wear,
Scarcely showing as much back-hair
As Tam O'Shanter's 'Meg'—and there
Lord knows she'd little enough to spare.

That stare and frown the Frenchman knew,
But did—as well-bred Frenchmen do :
Raised his shoulders above his crown,
Joined his thumbs, with the fingers down,
And said ‘ Ah, Heaven ! ’—then ‘ Mademoiselle,
Delay one minute, and all is well ! ’
He went ; returned ; by what good chance
These things are managed so well in France
I cannot say—but he made the sale,
And the bob-tailed mare had a flowing tail.

All that is false in this world below
Betrays itself in a love of show ;
Indignant Nature hides her lash
In the purple-black of a dyed moustache,
The shallowest fop will trip in French,
The would-be critic will misquote Trench ;
In short, you’re always sure to detect
A sham in the things folks most affect ;
Bean-pods are noisiest when dry,
And you always wink with your weakest eye :
And that’s the reason the old grey mare
For ever had her tail in the air,
With flourishes beyond compare.

Though every whisk

Incurred the risk

Of leaving that sensitive region bare :
She did some things that you couldn’t but feel
She wouldn’t have done had her tail been real.

Champs Elysées : Time, past five ;
There go the carriages—look alive !
Everything that man can drive,
Or his inventive skill contrive—

Yankee buggy or English 'chay',
Dog-cart, droschky, and smart coupé,
A désobligeante quite bulky
(French idea of a Yankee sulky) ;
Band in the distance, playing a march ;
Footmen standing stiff as starch ;
Savans, lorettes, deputies, Arch-
Bishops, and there together range
Sous-lieutenants and cent-gardes (strange Way these soldier-chaps make change)
Mixed with black-eyed Polish dames,
With unpronounceable, awful names ;
Laces tremble, and ribbons flout,
Coachmen wrangle, and gendarmes shout—
Bless us ! what is the row about ?
Ah ! here comes Rosey's new turn-out !
Smart ! You bet your life 'twas that !
Nifty ! (short for magnificat) ;
Mulberry panels—heraldic spread
Ebony wheels picked out with red,
And two grey mares that were thoroughbred.
No wonder that every danby's head
Was turned by the turn-out ; and 'twas said
That Caskowhisky (friend of the Czar),
A very good whip (as Russians are),
Was tied to Rosey's triumphal car,
Entranced, the reader will understand,
By 'ribbons' that graced her head and hands.

Alas ! the hour you think would crown
Your highest wishes should let you down !
Or fate should turn, by your own mischance,
Your victor's car to an ambulance ;
From cloudless heavens her lightnings glance
And these things happen, even in France) ;

And so Miss Rose, as she trotted by—
 The cynosure of every eye—
 Saw to her horror the off mare shy—
 Flourish her tail so exceeding high,
 That, disregarding the closest tie,
 And without giving a reason why,
 She flung that tail so free and frisky
 Off in the face of Caskowhisky !

Excuses, blushes, smiles : in fine,
 End of the pony's tail, and mine !

THE MIRACLE OF PADRE JUNIPERO

THIS is the tale that the Chronicle
 Tells of the wonderful miracle
 Wrought by the pious Padre Serro,
 The very reverend Junipero.

The heathen stood on his ancient mound,
 Looking over the desert bound
 Into the distant, hazy south,
 Over the dusty and broad champaign,
 Where, with many a gaping mouth,
 And fissure cracked by the fervid drouth,
 For seven months had the wasted plain
 Known no moisture of dew or rain.
 The wells were empty, and choked with sand
 The rivers had perished from the land ;
 Only the sea-fogs, ⁴to and fro,
 Slipped like ghosts of the streams below.

Deep in its bed lay the river's bones,
Bleaching in pebbles and milk-white stones,
And tracked o'er the desert faint and far,
Its ribs shone bright on each sandy bar.

Thus they stood as the sun went down
Over the foot-hills bare and brown ;
Thus they looked to the South, wherefrom
The pale-face medicine-man should come.
Not in anger, or in strife,
But to bring—so ran the tale—
The welcome springs of eternal life,
The living waters that should not fail.

Said one ' He will come like Manitou,
Unseen, unheard, in the falling dew '.
Said another ' He will come full soon
Out of the round-faced, watery moon '.
And another said ' He is here ! ' and lo—
Faltering, staggering, feeble, and slow—
Out from the desert's blinding heat
The Padre dropped at the heathen's feet.
They stood and gazed for a little space
Down on his pallid and careworn face,
And a smile of scorn went round the band
As they touched alternate with foot and hand
This mortal waif, that the outer space
Of dim mysterious sky and sand
Flung with so little of Christian grace
Down on their barren, sterile strand.

Said one to him : ' It seems thy god
Is a very pitiful kind of god ;
He could not shield thine aching eyes
From the blowing desert sands that rise,

Nor turn aside from thy old grey head
The glittering blade that is brandishèd
By the sun he set in the heavens high ;
He could not moisten thy lips when dry ;
The desert fire is in thy brain ;
Thy limbs are racked with the fever-pain :
If this be the grace he showeth thee
Who art his servant, what may we,
Strange to his ways and his commands,
Seek at his unforgiving hands ? ’

‘ Drink but this cup ’, said the Padre, straight,
‘ And thou shalt know whose mercy bore
These aching limbs to your heathen door,
And purged my soul of its gross estate.
Drink in His name, and thou shalt see
The hidden depths of this mystery.
Drink ! ’ and he held the cup. One blow
From the heathen dashed to the ground below
The sacred cup that the Padre bore ;
And the thirsty soil drank the precious store
Of sacramental and holy wine,
That emblem and consecrated sign
And blessed symbol of blood divine.
Then, says the legend (and they who doubt
The same as heretics be accurst),
From the dry and feverish soil leaped out
A living fountain ; a well-spring burst
Over the dusty and broad champaign,
Over the sandy and sterile plain,
Till the granite ribs and the milk-white stones
That lay in the valley—the scattered bones—
Moved in the river and lived again !

Such was the wonderful miracle
Wrought by the cup of wine that fell
From the hands of the pious Padre Serro,
The very reverend Junipero.

AN ARCTIC VISION

WHERE the short-legged Esquimaux
Waddle in the ice and snow,
And the playful polar bear
Nips the hunter unaware ;
Where by day they track the ermine,
And by night another vermin—
Segment of the frigid zone,
Where the temperature alone
Warms on St Elias' cone ;
Polar dock, where Nature slips
From the ways her icy ships ;
Land and fox and deer and sable,
Shore end of our western cable—
Let the news that flying goes
Thrill through all your Arctic floes,
And reverberate the boast
From the cliffs of Beechey's coast,
Till the tidings, circling round
Every bay of Norton Sound,
Throw the vocal tide-wave back
To the iles of Kodiak.
Let the stately polar bears
Waltz around the pole in pairs,
And the walrus, in his glee,
Bare his tusk of ivory ;
While the bold sea-unicorn

Calmly takes an extra horn ;
All ye polar skies, reveal your
Very rarest of parhelia ;
Trip it, all ye merry dancers,
In the airiest of lancers ;
Slide, ye solemn glaciers, slide,
One inch farther to the tide,
Nor in rash precipitation
Upset Tyndall's calculation.
Know you not what fate awaits you,
Or to whom the future mates you ?
All ye icebergs, make salaam—
You belong to Uncle Sam !

On the spot where Eugene Sue
Led his wretched wandering Jew
Stands a form whose features strike
Russ and Esquimaux alike.
He it is whom Skalds of old
In their Runic rhymes foretold ;
Lean of flank and lank of jaw,
See the real Northern Thor !
See the awful Yankee leering
Just across the Straits of Behring ;
On the drifted snow, too plain,
Sinks his fresh tobacco stain
Just beside the deep inden-
Tation of his Number 10.
Leaning on his icy hammer
Stands the hero of this drama,
And above the wild-duck's clamour,
In his own peculiar grammar,
With its linguistic disguises,
Lo, the Arctic prologue rises :

'Wa'll, I reckon 'tain't so bad,
 Seein' ez 'twas all they had.
 True the springs are rather late,
 And early Falls predominate;
 But the ice crop's pretty sure,
 And the air is kind o' pure;
 'Tain't so very mean a trade,
 When the land is all surveyed.
 There's a right smart chance for fur-chase
 All along this recent purchase,
 And, unless the stories fail,
 Every fish from cod to whale;
 Rocks too; mebbe quartz; let's see—
 'Twould be strange if there should be—
 Seems I've heerd such stories told:
 Eh!—why, bless us,—yes, it's gold!'

While the blows are falling thick
 From his California pick,
 You may recognize the Thor
 Of the vision that I saw—
 Freed from legendary glamour,
 See the real magician's hammer.

TO THE PLIOCENE SKULL

A Geological Address

'SPEAK, O man, less recent! Fragmentary fossil!
 Primal pioneer of pliocene formation,
 Hid in lowest drifts below the earliest stratum
 Of volcanic tufa!

‘ Older than the beasts, the oldest Palæotherium
Older than the trees, the oldest Cryptogami;
Older than the hills, those infantile eruptions
Of earth’s epidermis !

‘ Eo—Mio—Plio—whatsoe’er the “cene” was That those vacant sockets filled with awe and wonder—

Whether shores Devonian or Silurian beaches—
Tell us thy strange story !

‘ Or has the professor slightly antedated
By some thousand years thy advent on this planet,
Giving thee an air that’s somewhat better fitted
For cold-blooded creatures ?

‘ Wert thou true spectator of that mighty forest
When above thy head the stately Sigillaria Reared its columned trunks in that remote and distant

Carboniferous epoch ?

‘ Tell us of that scene—the dim and watery woodland,
Songless, silent, hushed, with never bird or insect

Veiled with spreading fronds and screened with tall club-mosses,

Lycopodiacia—

‘ When beside thee walked the solemn Plesiosaurus,
And around thee crept the festive Ichthyo-
saurus,

While from time to time above thee flew and circled

Cheerful Pterodactyls.

‘ Tell us of thy food—those half-marine refectons, Crinoids on the shell, and Brachipods au
naturel—

Cuttle-fish to which the pieuvre of Victor Hugo
Seems a periwinkle.

‘ Speak, thou awful vestige of the Earth’s creation—

Solitary fragment of remains organic !

Tell the wondrous secret of thy past existence—

Speak ! thou oldest primate ! ’

Even as I gazed, a thrill of the maxilla,
And a lateral movement of the condyloid process,

With post-pliocene sounds of healthy mastication,
Ground the teeth together.

And from that imperfect dental exhibition,
Stained with expressed juices of the weed
Nicotian,

Came these hollow accents, blent with softer murmurs

Of expectoration ;

‘ Which my name is Bowers, and my crust was busted

Falling down a shaft in Calaveras county :

But I’d take it kindly if you’d send the pieces

Home to old Missouri ! ’

THE BALLAD OF THE EMEU

OH, say, have you seen at the Willows so green—
 So charming and rurally true—
 A singular bird, with a manner absurd,
 Which they call the Australian Emeu ?
 Have you
 Ever seen this Australian Emeu ?

It trots all around with its head on the ground,
 Or erects it quite out of your view ;
 And the ladies all cry, when its figure they spy,
 Oh, what a sweet pretty Emeu !
 Oh ! do
 Just look at that lovely Emeu !

One day to this spot, when the weather was hot,
 Came Matilda Hortense Fortescue ;
 And beside her there came a youth of high name—
 Augustus Florell Montague :
 The two
 Both loved that wild, foreign Emeu.

With two loaves of bread then they fed it, instead
 Of the flesh of the white cockatoo,
 Which once was its food in that wild neighbourhood
 Where ranges the sweet Kangaroo :
 That, too,
 Is the game for the famous Emeu !

Old saws and gimlets but its appetite whets,
Like the world-famous bark of Peru :
There's nothing so hard that the bird will discard,
And nothing its taste will eschew,
That you
Can give that long-legged Emeu !

The time slipped away in this innocent play,
When up jumped the bold Montague :
' Where's that specimen pin that I gaily did win
In raffle, and gave unto you,
Fortescue ? '
No word spoke the guilty Emeu !

' Quick ! tell me his name whom thou gavest that same,
Ere these hands in thy blood I imbrue ! '
' Nay, dearest,' she cried, as she clung to his side,
' I'm innocent as that Emeu ! '
' Adieu ! '
' He replied, ' Miss M. H. Fortescue ! '

Down she dropped at his feet, all as white as a sheet,
As wildly he fled from her view :
He thought 'twas her sin ; for he knew not the pin
Had been gobbled up by the Emeu ;
All through
The voracity of that Emeu !

THE AGED STRANGER

An Incident of the War

'I WAS with Grant'—the stranger said.
Said the farmer 'Say no more,
But rest thee here at my cottage porch,
For thy feet are weary and sore'.

'I was with Grant'—the stranger said.
Said the farmer 'Nay, no more :
I prithee sit at my frugal board,
And eat of my humble store.

'How fares my boy, my soldier boy,
Of the old Ninth Army Corps ?
I warrant he bore him gallantly
In the smoke and the battle's roar !'

'I know him not', said the aged man ;
'And, as I remarked before,
I was with Grant' — 'Nay, nay, I know',
Said the farmer ; 'say no more.

'He fell in battle—I see, alas !
Thou'dst smooth these tidings o'er—
Nay ; speak the truth, whatever it be,
Though it rend my bosom's core.

'How fell he—with his face to the foe
Upholding the flag he bore ?
Oh ! say not that my boy disgraced
The uniform that he wore !'

‘ I cannot tell ’ said the aged man,
‘ And should have remarked, before,
That I was with Grant—in Illinois—
Some three years before the war ’.

Then the farmer spake him never a word,
But beat with his fist full sore
That aged man, who had worked for Grant
Some three years before the war.

‘ HOW ARE YOU, SANITARY ? ’

Down the picket-guarded lane,
Rolled the comfort-laden wain,
Cheered by shouts that shook the plain,
Soldier-like and merry :
Phrases such as camps may teach,
Sabre-cuts of Saxon speech,
Such as ‘ Bully ! ’ ‘ Them’s the peach ! ’
‘ Wade in, Sanitary ! ’

Right and left the caissons drew,
As the car went lumbering through,
Quick succeeding in review
Squadrons military ;
Sunburnt men with beards like frieze,
Smooth-faced boys, and cries like these—‘ U.S. San. Com.’ ‘ That’s the cheese ! ’
‘ Pass in, Sanitary ! ’

In such cheer it struggled on
Till the battle-front was won :
Then the car, its journey done,
Lo ! was stationary ;

And where bullets whistling fly,
 Came the sadder, fainter cry,
 ' Help us, brothers, ere we die,—
 Save us, Sanitary ! '

Such the work. The phantom flies,
 Wrapped in battle-clouds that rise ;
 But the brave—whose dying eyes,
 Veiled and visionary,
 See the jasper gates swung wide,
 See the parted throng outside—
 Hears the voice to those who ride :
 ' Pass in, Sanitary ! '

THE RÉVEILLE

HARK ! I hear the tramp of thousands,
 And of armèd men the hum ;
 Lo ! a nation's hosts have gathered
 Round the quick alarming drum—
 Saying ' Come,
 Freemen, come !
 Ere your heritage be wasted ' said the quick alarming drum.

' Let me of my heart take counsel :
 War is not of Life the sum ;
 Who shall stay and reap the harvest
 When the autumn days shall come ? ''
 But the drum
 Echoed ' Come !
 Death shall reap the braver harvest ' said the solemn-sounding drum.

' But when won the coming battle,
What of profit springs therefrom ?
What of conquest, subjugation,
Even greater ills become ? '

But the drum

Answered ' Come !

You must do the sum to prove it' said the Yankee-answering drum.

' What if, 'mid the cannons' thunder,
Whistling shot and bursting bomb,
When my brothers fall around me,
Should my heart grow cold and numb ? '

But the drum

Answered ' Come !

Better there in death united, than in life a recreant—come ! '

Thus they answered—hoping, fearing,
Some in faith, and doubting some,
Till a trumpet-voice proclaiming,
Said ' My chosen people, come ! '

Then the drum,

Lo ! was dumb,

For the great heart of the nation, throbbing, answered ' Lord, we come ! '

OUR PRIVILEGE

Not ours where battle smoke upcurls,
And battle dews lie wet,
To meet the charge that treason hurls
By sword and bayonet.

Not ours to guide the fatal scythe
The fleshless reaper wields :
The harvest moon looks calmly down
Upon our peaceful fields.

The long grass dimples on the hill,
The Pines sing by the sea ;
And Plenty, from her golden horn,
Is pouring far and free.

O brothers by the farther sea !
Think still our faith is warm :
The same bright flag above us waves
That swathed our baby form.

The same red blood that dyes your fields
Here throbs in patriot pride ;
The blood that flowed when Lander fell,
And Baker's crimson tide.

And thus apart our hearts keep time
With every pulse ye feel ;
And Mercy's ringing gold shall chime
With Valour's clashing steel.

RELIEVING GUARD

T. S. H. Obiit March 4, 1864

CAME the relief. 'What, sentry, ho !
How passed the night through thy long waking ?'
'Cold, cheerless, dark—as may befit
The hour before the dawn is breaking'.

No sight ? no sound ? ' ' No ; nothing save
The plover from the marshes calling,
And in yon Western sky, about
An hour ago, a star was falling '.

' A star ? There's nothing strange in that.'
' No, nothing ; but, above the thicket,
Somehow it seemed to me that God
Somewhere had just relieved a picket '.

A GEOLOGICAL MADRIGAL

After Herrick

I HAVE found out a gift for my fair ;
I know where the fossils abound,
Where the footprints of Aves declare
The birds that once walked on the ground ;
Oh ! come, and—in technical speech—
We'll walk this Devonian shore,
Or on some Silurian beach
We'll wander, my love, evermore.

I will show thee the sinuous track
By the slow-moving annelid make,
Or the trilobite, that, farther back,
In the old Potsdam sandstone was laid.
Thou shalt see, in his Jurassic tomb,
The plesiosaurus embalmed ;
In his oolitic prime and his bloom—
Iguanodon, safe and unharmed !

You wished—I remember it well,
And I love you the more for that wish—
For a perfect cystedian shell
And a whole holocephalic fish.

And oh ! if Earth's strata contains
In its lowest Silurian drift,
Or palæozoic remains,
The same—'tis your lover's free gift !

Then come, love, and never say nay,
But calm all your maidenly fears :
We'll note, love, in one summer's day
The record of millions of years ;
And though the Darwinian plan
Our sensitive feelings may shock,
We'll find the beginning of man—
Our fossil ancestors in rock !

THE WILLOWS

After Edgar A. Poe

THE skies they were ashen and sober,
The streets they were dirty and drear ;
It was night in the month of October,
Of my most immemorial year ;
Like the skies I was perfectly sober,
As I stopped at the mansion of Shear—
At the Nightingale—perfectly sober,
And the willowy woodland, down here.

Here once in an alley Titanic
Of ten-pins—I roamed with my soul—
Of ten-pins—with Mary, my soul ;
They were days when my heart was volcanic,
And impelled me to frequently roll,
And made me resistlessly roll,

Till my ten-strikes created a panic
In the realms of the Boreal pole,
Till my ten-strikes created a panic
With the monkey atop of his pole.

I repeat, I was perfectly sober,
But my thoughts they were palsied and sear—
My thoughts were decidedly queer ;
For I knew not the month was October,
And I marked not the night of the year :
I forgot that sweet morceau of Auber
That the band oft performèd down here ;
And I mixed the sweet music of Auber
With the Nightingale's music by Shear.

And now as the night was senescent,
And star-dials pointed to morn,
And car-drivers hinted of morn,
At the end of the path a liquescent
And bibulous lustre was born :
'Twas made by the bar-keeper present,
Who mixèd a duplicate horn—
His two hands describing a crescent
Distinct with a duplicate horn.

And I said : ' This looks perfectly regal ;
For it's warm, and I know I feel dry—
I am confident that I feel dry.
We have come past the emeu and eagle,
And watched the gay monkey on high ;
Let us drink to the emeu and eagle—
To the swan and the monkey on high ;
To the eagle and monkey on high ;

For this bar-keeper will not inveigle—
Bully boy with the vitreous eye ;
He surely would never inveigle—
Sweet youth with the crystalline eye '.

But Mary, uplifting her finger,
Said ' Sadly this bar I mistrust—
I fear that this bar does not trust.
Oh, hasten ! Oh, let us not linger !
Oh, fly !—let us fly—ere we must ! '
In terror she cried, letting sink her
Parasol till it trailed in the dust—
In agony sobbed, letting sink her
Parasol till it trailed in the dust—
Till it sorrowfully trailed in the dust.

Then I pacified Mary, and kissed her,
And tempted her into the room,
And conquered her scruples and gloom ;
And we passed to the end of the vista,
But were stopped by the warning of doom,
By some words that were warning of doom.
And I said ' What is written, sweet sister,
At the opposite end of the room ? '
She sobbed, as she answered ' All liquors
Must be paid for ere leaving the room '.

Then my heart it grew ashen and sober,
As the streets were deserted and drear—
For my pockets were empty and drear ;
And I cried ' It was surely October,
On this very night of last year,
That I journeyed—I journeyed down here—
That I brought a fair maiden down here,

On this night of all nights in the year.

Ah ! to me that inscription is clear :
Well I know now, I'm perfectly sober,
Why no longer they credit me here—
Well I know now that music of Auber,
And this Nightingale, kept by one Shear'.

NORTH BEACH

After Spenser

Lo ! where the castle of bold Pfeiffer throws
Its sullen shadow on the rolling tide—
No more the home where joy and wealth repose,
But now where wassailers in cells abide—
See yon long quay that stretches far and wide,
Well known to citizens as wharf of Meiggs :
There each sweet Sabbath walks in maiden pride
The pensive Margaret, and brave Pat, whose legs
Encased in broadcloth oft keep time with Peg's.

Here cometh oft the tender nursery-maid,
While in her ear her love his tale doth pour :
Meantime her infant doth her charge evade,
And rambleth sagely on the sandy shore,
Till the sly sea-crab, low in ambush laid,
Seizeth his leg, and biteth him full sore.

Ah, me! what sounds the shuddering echoes
bore,
When his small treble mixed with Ocean's roar.

Hard by there stands an ancient hostelrie,
And at its side a garden, where the bear,
The stealthy catamount, and coon agree
To work deceit on all who gather there;
And when Augusta—that unconscious fair—
With nuts and apples plieth Bruin free,
Lo! the green parrot claweth her back hair,
And the grey monkey grabbeth fruits that she
On her gay bonnet wears, and laugheth loud in glee!

THE LOST TAILS OF MILETUS

HIGH on the Thracian hills, half hid in the billows of clover,
Thyme, and the asphodel blooms, and lulled by Pactolian streamlet,
She of Miletus lay; and beside her an aged satyr
Scratched his ear with his hoof, and playfully mumbled his chestnuts.

Vainly the Mænid and the Bassarid gambolled about her,
The free-eyed Bacchante sang, and Pan—the renowned, the accomplished—

Executed his difficult solo. In vain were their gambols and dances :

High o'er the Thracian hills rose the voice of the shepherdess, wailing.

' Ai ! for the fleecy flocks—the meek-nosed, the passionless faces ;

Ai ! for the tallow-scented, the straight-tailed, the high-stepping ;

Ai ! for the timid glance, which is that which the rustic, sagacious,

Applies to him who loves but may not declare his passion ! '

Her then Zeus answered slow, ' O daughter of song and sorrow—

Hapless tender of sheep—arise from thy long lamentation !

Since thou canst not trust fate, nor behave as becomes a Greek maiden,

Look and behold thy sheep.'—And lo ! they returned to her tailless !

EAST AND WEST POEMS

EAST AND WEST POEMS

A GREYPORT LEGEND

(1797)

THEY ran through the streets of the seaport town :

They peered from the decks of the ships that lay :

The cold sea-fog that came whitening down
Was never as cold or white as they.

‘ Ho, Starbuck and Pinckney and Tenterden,
Run for your shallops, gather your men,
Scatter your boats on the lower bay ’.

Good cause for fear ! In the thick midday
The hulk that lay by the rotting pier,
Filled with the children in happy play,
Parted its moorings, and drifted clear—
Drifted clear beyond the reach or call—
Thirteen children they were in all—
All adrift in the lower bay !

Said a hard-faced skipper 'God help us all !
She will not float till the turning tide !'
Said his wife 'My darling will hear my call,
Whether in sea or heaven she bide'.

And she lifted a quavering voice and high,
Wild and strange as a sea-bird's cry,
Till they shuddered and wondered at her side.

The fog drove down on each labouring crew,
Veiled each from each and the sky and shore :
There was not a sound but the breath they drew,
And the lap of water and creak of oar ;
And they felt the breath of the downs, fresh blown

O'er leagues of clover and cold grey stone,
But not from the lips that had gone before.

They came no more. But they tell the tale,
That, when fogs are thick on the harbour reef,
The mackerel fishers shorten sail ;
For the signal they know will bring relief :
For the voices of children, still at play
In a phantom hulk that drifts away
Through channels whose waters never fail.

It is but a foolish shipman's tale,
A theme for a poet's idle page ;
But still, when the mists of doubt prevail,
And we lie becalmed by the shores of Age,
We hear from the misty troubled shore
The voice of the children gone before,
Drawing the soul to its anchorage.

A NEWPORT ROMANCE

THEY say that she died of a broken heart
 (I tell the tale as 'twas told to me) ;
But her spirit lives, and her soul is part
 Of this sad old house by the sea.

Her lover was fickle and fine and French :
 It was nearly a hundred years ago
When he sailed away from her arms—poor wench !
 With the Admiral Rochambeau.

I marvel much what periwigged phrase
 Won the heart of this sentimental Quaker,
At what golden-laced speech of those modish days
 She listened—the mischief take her !

But she kept the posies of mignonette
 That he gave ; and ever as their bloom failed
And faded (though with her tears still wet)
 Her youth with their own exhaled.

Till one night, when the sea-fog wrapped a shroud
 Round spar and spire and tarn and tree,
Her soul went up on that lifted cloud
 From this sad old house by the sea.

And ever since then, when the clock strikes two,
 She walks unbidden from room to room,
And the air is filled that she passes through
 With a subtile, sad perfume.

The delicate odour of mignonette,
The ghost of a dead and gone bouquet,
Is all that tells of her story ; yet
Could she think of a sweeter way ?

* * * * *

I sit in the sad old house to-night—
Myself a ghost from a farther sea ;
And I trust that this Quaker woman might,
In courtesy, visit me.

For the laugh is fled from porch and lawn,
And the bugle died from the fort on the hill,
And the twitter of girls on the stairs is gone,
And the grand piano is still.

Somewhere in the darkness a clock strikes two ;
And there is no sound in the sad old house,
But the long verandah dripping with dew,
And in the wainscot a mouse.

The light of my study-lamp streams out
From the library door, but has gone astray
In the depths of the darkened hall. Small doubt
But the Quakeress knows the way.

Was it the trick of a sense o'erwrought
With outward watching and inward fret ?
But I swear that the air just now was fraught
With the odour of mignonette !

I open the window and seem almost—
So still lies the ocean—to hear the beat
Of its Great Gulf artery off the coast,
And to bask in its tropic heat.

In my neighbour's windows the gas-lights flare,
As the dancers swing in a waltz of Strauss ;
And I wonder now could I fit that air
To the song of this sad old house.

And no odour of mignonette there is
But the breath of morn on the dewy lawn ;
And mayhap from causes as slight as this
The quaint old legend is born.

But the soul of that subtile, sad perfume,
As the spiced embalmings, they say, outlast
The mummy laid in his rocky tomb,
Awakens my buried past.

And I think of the passion that shook my youth
Of its aimless loves and its idle pains,
And am thankful now for the certain truth
That only the sweet remains.

And I hear no rustle of stiff brocade,
And I see no face at my library door ;
For now that the ghosts of my heart are laid,
She is viewless for evermore.

But whether she came as a faint perfume,
Or whether a spirit in stole of white,
I feel, as I pass from the darkened room,
She has been with my soul to-night !

THE HAWK'S NEST

(Sierras)

WE checked our pace—the red road sharply
rounding ;

We heard the troubled flow
Of the dark olive depths of pines, resounding
A thousand feet below.

Above the tumult of the cañon lifted,
The grey hawk breathless hung ;
Or on the hill a wingèd shadow drifted
Where furze and thorn-bush clung ;

Or where half-way the mountain side was furrowed
With many a seam and scar ;
Or some abandoned tunnel dimly burrowed—
A mole-hill seen so far.

We looked in silence down across the distant
Unfathomable reach :
A silence broken by the guide's consistent
And realistic speech.

' Walker of Murphy's blew a hole through Peters
For tellin' him he lied ;
Then up and dusted out of South Hornitos
Across the long Divide.

' We ran him out of Strong's, and up through Eden,
And 'cross the ford below ;
And up this cañon (Peters' brother leadin',
And me and Clark and Joe).

' He fou't us game : somehow, I disremember
Jest how the thing kem round ;
Some say 'twas waddin', some a scattered ember
From fires on the ground.

' But in one minute all the hills below him
Was jest one sheet of flame ;
Guardin' the crest, Sam Clark and I called to him,
And—well, the dog was game !

' He made no sign : the fires of hell were round
him,
The pit of hell below,
We sat and waited, but never found him ;
And then we turned to go.

' And then—you see that rock that's grown so bristly
With chaparral and tan—
Suthin' crep' out : it might hev been a grizzly,
It might hev been a man ;

' Suthin' that howled, and gnashed its teeth,
and shouted
In smoke and dust and flame ;
Suthin' that sprang into the depths about it,
Grizzly or man—but game !

' That's all. Well, yes, it does look rather risky,
And kinder makes one queer
And dizzy looking down. A drop of whisky
Ain't a bad thing right here ! '

IN THE MISSION GARDEN

1865

FATHER FELIPE

I SPEAK not the English well, but Pachita
She speak for me ; is it not so, my Pancha ?
Eh, little rogue ? . Come, salute me the stranger Americano.

Sir, in my country we say ‘ Where the heart is,
There live the speech ’. Ah ! you not understand ?
So !

Pardon an old man—what you call ‘ ol fogy ’—
Padre Felipe !

Old, Señor, old ! just so old as the Mission.
You see that pear-tree ? How old you think,
Señor ?

Fifteen year ? Twenty ? Ah, Señor, just fifty
Gone since I plant him !

You like the wine ? It is some at the Mission,
Made from the grape of the year Eighteen Hundred ;

All the same time when the earthquake he come to San Juan Bautista.

But Pancha is twelve, and she is the rose-tree ;
And I am the olive, and this is the garden :
And Pancha we say ; but her name is Francisca,
Same like her mother.

Eh, you knew her ? No ? Ah ! it is a story ;
But I speak not, like Pachita, the English :
So ? If I try, you will sit here beside me,
An’ shall not laugh, eh ?

When the American come to the Mission,
Many arrive at the house of Francisca :
One—he was a fine man—he buy the cattle
Of José Castro.

So ! he came much, and Francisca she saw him :
And it was Love—and a very dry season ;
And the pears bake on the tree—and the rain
come,
But not Francisca ;

Not for one year ; and one night I have walk much
Under the olive-tree, when comes Francisca :
Comes to me here, with her child, this Francisca—
Under the olive-tree.

Sir, it was sad ; . . . but I speak not the English ;
So ! . . . she stays here, and she wait for her husband ;
He come no more, and she sleep on the hillside ;
There stands Pachita.

Ah ! there's the Angelus. Will you not enter ?
Or shall you walk in the garden with Pancha ?
Go, little rogue—stt—attend to the stranger.
Adios, Señor.

PACHITA (briskly)

So, he's been telling that yarn about mother !
Bless you, he tells it to every stranger :
Folks about yer say the old man's my father :
What's your opinion ?

THE OLD MAJOR EXPLAINS

(Re-Union, Army of the Potomac,

12th May, 1871)

‘ WELL you see, the fact is, Colonel, I don’t know as I can come :

For the farm is not half planted, and there’s work to do at home ;

And my leg is getting troublesome—it laid me up last fall,

And the doctors, they have cut and hacked, and never found the ball.

‘ And then, for an old man like me, it’s not exactly right,

This kind o’ playing soldier with no enemy in sight.

‘ The Union ’—that was well enough way up to ’66 ;

But this ‘ Re-Union ’—may be now it’s mixed with politics ?

‘ No ? Well, you understand it best ; but then, you see, my lad,

I’m deacon now, and some might think that the example’s bad.

And week from next is Conference . . . You said the 12th of May ?

Why, that’s the day we broke their line at Spottsylvania-i-a !

‘ Hot work ; eh, Colonel, wasn’t it ? Ye mind that narrow front :

They called it the “ Death-Angle ! ” Well, well, my lad, we won’t Fight that old battle over now : I only meant to say

I really can’t engage to come upon the 12th of May.

‘ How’s Thompson ? What ! will he be there ?

Well, now, I want to know !

The first man in the rebel works ! they called him “ Swearing Joe ” :

A wild young fellow, sir, I fear the rascal was ; but then—

Well, short of heaven, there wa’n’t a place he dursn’t lead his men.

‘ And Dick, you say, is coming too. And Billy ? ah ! it’s true

We buried him at Gettysburg : I mind the spot ; do you ?

A little field below the hill—it must be green this May ;

Perhaps that’s why the fields about bring him to me to-day.

‘ Well, well, excuse me, Colonel ! but there are some things that drop

The tail-board out one’s feelings ; and the only way’s to stop.

So they want to see the old man ; ah, the rascals ! do they, eh ?

Well, I’ve business down in Boston about the 12th of May’.

'SEVENTY-NINE'

Mr Interviewer interviewed

KNOW me next time when you see me, won't you, old smarty?

Oh, I mean you, old figger-head—just the same party!

Take out your pensivel, d—n you; sharpen it, do!

Any complaints to make? Lots of 'em—one of 'em's you.

You! who are you, anyhow, goin' round in that sneakin' way?

Never in jail before, was you, old blatherskite, say?

Look at it; don't it look pooty? Oh, grin, and be d—d to you, do!

But, if I had you this side o' that gratin', I'd just make it lively for you.

How did I get in here? Well, what 'ud you give to know?

'Twasn't by sneakin' round where I hadn't no call to go:

'Twasn't by hanging' round a spyin' unfortnet men.

Grin! but I'll stop your jaw if ever you do that agen.

Why don't you say suthin', blast you?
Speak your mind if you dare.

Ain't I a bad lot, sonny? Say it, and call it square.

Hain't got no tongue, hey, hev ye? Oh guard!
here's a little swell,

A cussin' and swearin' and yellin', and bribin'
me not to tell.

There, I thought that 'ud fetch ye. And you want to know my name?

'Seventy-nine' they call me; but that is their little game.

For I'm werry highly connected, as a gent, sir,
can understand;

And my family hold their heads up with the very furst in the land.

For 'twas all, sir, a put-up job on a pore young man like me;

And the jury was bribed a puppos, affurst they couldn't agree.

And I sed to the judge, sez I—Oh, grin! it's all right, my son!

But you're a werry lively young pup, and you ain't to be played upon!

Wot's that you got—tobacco? I'm cussed but I thought 'twas a tract.

Thank ye. A chap t'other day—now, look'ee,
this is a fact,

Slings me a tract on the evils o' keepin' bad company,

As if all the saints was howlin' to stay here along's we.

No: I hain't no complaints. Stop, yes; do you see that chap—

Him standin' over there—a hidin' his eyes in his cap?

Well, that man's stumick is weak, and he can't stand the pris'n fare;

For the coffee is just half beans, and the sugar
ain't nowhere.

Perhaps it's his bringin' up; but he sickens day
by day,

And he doesn't take no food, and I'm seein'
him waste away.

And it isn't the thing to see; for, whatever he's been and done,

Starvation isn't the plan as he's to be saved upon.

For he cannot rough it like me; and he hasn't the stamps, I guess,

To buy him his extry grub outside o' the pris'n mess.

And perhaps if a gent like you, with whom
I've been sorter free,

Would—thank you! But, say, look here!

Oh, blast it, don't give it to ME!

Don't you give it to me; now, don't ye, don't ye, don't!

You think it's a put-up job; so I'll thank ye,
sir, if you won't.

But hand him the stamps yourself: why, he isn't even my pal;

And if it's a comfort to you, why, I don't intend that he shall.

HIS ANSWER TO 'HER LETTER'

Reported by Truthful James

BEING asked by an intimate party—

Which the same I would term as a friend—
Which his health it were vain to call hearty,
Since the mind to deceit it might lend ;
For his arm it was broken quite recent,
And has something gone wrong with his lung—
Which it is why it is proper and decent
I should write what he runs off his tongue :

First, he says, Miss, he's read through your letter

To the end—and the end came too soon ;
That a slight illness kept him your debtor
(Which for weeks he was wild as a loon) ;
That his spirits are buoyant as yours is ;
That with you, Miss, he challenges Fate
(Which the language that invalid uses
At times it were vain to relate).

And he says that the mountains are fairer,
For once being held in your thoughts ;
That each rock holds a wealth that is rarer
Than ever by gold-seeker sought
(Which are words he would put in these pages,
By a party not given to guile ;
Which the same not, at date, paying wages,
Might produce in the sinful a smile).

He remembers the ball at the Ferry,
 And the ride, and the gate, and the vow,
 And the rose that you gave him—that very Same rose he is treasuring now
 (Which his blanket he's kicked on his trunk,
 Miss,
 And insists on his legs being free ;
 And his language to me from his bunk, Miss,
 Is frequent and painful and free) ;

He hopes you are wearing no willows,
 But are happy and gay all the while ;
 That he knows (which this dodging of pillows
 Imparts but small ease to the style,
 And the same you will pardon)—he knows, Miss,
 That though parted by many a mile,
 Yet were he lying under the snows, Miss,
 They'd melt into tears at your smile.

And you'll still think of him in your pleasures,
 In your brief twilight dreams of the past ;
 In this green laurel-spray that he treasures,
 It was plucked where your parting was last ;
 In this specimen—but a small trifle—
 It will do for a pin for your shawl
 (Which the truth not to wickedly stifle
 Was his last week's 'clean up'—and his all).

He's asleep, which the same might seem strange.
 Miss,
 Were it not that I scorn to deny
 That I raised his last dose, for a change, Miss,
 In view that his fever was high ;

But he lies there quite peaceful and pensive.
And now, my respects, Miss, to you ;
Which my language, although comprehensive,
Might seem to be freedom, it's true.

Which I have a small favour to ask you,
As concerns a bull-pup, which the same—
If the duty would not overtask you—
You would please to procure for me, game !
And send per express to the Flat, Miss,
Which they say York is famed for the breed
Which though words of deceit may be that, Miss,
I'll trust to your taste, Miss, indeed.

P.S.—Which this same interfering
Into other folk's way I despise ;
Yet if it so be I was hearing
That it's just empty pockets as lies
Betwixt you and Joseph, it follers,
That, having no family claims,
Here's my pile ; which it's six hundred dollars,
As is yours, with respects,

TRUTHFUL JAMES.

FURTHER LANGUAGE FROM TRUTHFUL JAMES

(Nye's Ford, Stanislaus)

1870

Do I sleep ? do I dream ?
Do I wander and doubt ?
Are things what they seem ?
Or is visions about ?
Is our civilization a failure ?
Or is the Caucasian played out ?

Which expressions are strong :
Yet would feebly imply
Some account of a wrong—
Not to call it a lie—
As was worked off on William, my pardner,
And the same being W. Nye.

He came down to the Ford
On the very same day
Of that lottery drawed
By those sharps at the Bay ;
And he says to me ' Truthful, how goes it ? '
I replied ' It is far, far from gay ;

' For the camp has gone wild
On this lottery game,
And has even beguiled
" Injin Dick " by the same '
Which said Nye to me ' Injins is pizen :
Do you know what his number is, James ? '

I replied ' 7,2,
9,8,4, is his hand ' ;
When he started, and drew
Out a list, which he scanned ;
Then he softly went for his revolver
With language I cannot command.

Then I said ' William Nye ! '
But he turned upon me,
And the look in his eye
Was quite painful to see ;
And he says ' You mistake : this poor Injin
I protects from such sharps as you be ! '

I was shocked and withdrew ;
But I grieve to relate,
When he next met my view
Injin Dick was his mate,
And the two around town was a-lying
In a frightfully dissolute state.

Which the war-dance they had
Round a tree at the bend,
Was a sight that was sad ;
And it seemed that the end
Would not justify the proceedings,
As I quiet remarked to a friend.

For that Injin he fled
The next day to this band ;
And we found William spread
Very loose on the strand,
With a peaceful-like smile on his features,
And a dollar greenback in his hand ;

Which the same when rolled out,
We observed with surprise,
That that Injin, no doubt,
Had believed was the prize—
Them figures in red in the corner,
Which the number of notes specifies.

Was it guile, or a dream ?
Is it Nye that I doubt ?
Are things what they seem ?
Or is visions about ?
Is our civilization a failure ?
Or is the Caucasian played out ?

THE WONDERFUL SPRING OF SAN JOAQUIN

OF all the fountains that poets sing—
Crystal, thermal, or mineral spring;
Ponce de Leon's Fount of Youth;
Wells with bottoms of doubtful truth;
In short, of all the springs of Time
That ever were flowing in fact or rhyme,
That ever were tasted, felt, or seen—
There were none like the Spring of San Joaquin.
Anno Domini Eighteen-seven,
Father Dominguez (now in heaven, Obiit Eighteen twenty-seven)
Found the spring, and found it, too,
By his mule's miraculous cast of a shoe;
For his beast—a descendant of Balaam's ass—
Stopped on the instant, and would not pass.

The Padre thought the omen good,
And bent his lips to the trickling flood;
Then—as the chronicles declare,
On the honest faith of a true believer—
His cheeks, though wasted, lank, and bare,
Filled like a withered russet-pear
In the vacuum of a glass receiver,
And the snows that seventy winters bring
Melted away in that magic spring.

Such, at least, was the wondrous news
The Padre brought into Santa Cruz.
The Church, of course, had its own views
Of who were worthiest to use

The magic spring ; but the prior claim
Fell to the aged, sick, and lame.
Far and wide the people came :

Some from the healthful Aptos creek
Hastened to bring their helpless sick ;
Even the fishers of rude Soquel
Suddenly found they were far from well ;
The brawny dwellers of San Lorenzo
Said, in fact, they had never been so :
And all were ailing—strange to say—
From Pescadero to Monterey.

Over the mountain they poured in
With leathern bottles, and bags of skin ;
Through the cañons a motley throng
Trotted, hobbled, and limped along.
The father gazed at the moving scene
With pious joy and with souls serene ;
And then—a result perhaps foreseen—
They laid out the Mission of San Joaquin.

Not in the eyes of Faith alone
The good effects of the waters shone ;
But skins grew rosy, eyes waxed clear,
Of rough vacquero and muleteer ;
Angular forms were rounded out,
Limbs grew supple, and waists grew stout ;
And as for the girls—for miles about
They had no equal ! To this day,
From Pescadero to Monterey,
You'll still find eyes in which are seen
The liquid graces of San Joaquin.

There is a limit to human bliss,
 And the Mission of San Joaquin had this :
 None went abroad to roam or stay,
 But they fell sick in the queerest way—
 A singular maladie du pays,
 With gastric symptoms : so they spent
 Their days in a sensuous content ;
 Caring little for things unseen
 Beyond their bowers of living green—
 Beyond the mountains that lay between
 The world and the Mission of San Joaquin.

Winter passed, and the summer came :
 The trunks of madroño all aflame,
 Here and there through the underwood
 Like pillars of fire starkly stood.
 All of the breezy solitude

Was filled with the spicing of pine and bay
 And resinous odours mixed and blended,
 And dim and ghost-like far away
 The smoke of the burning woods ascended.
 Then of a sudden the mountains swam,
 The rivers piled their floods in a dam,
 The ridge above Los Gatos creek

Arched its spine in a feline fashion ;
 The forests waltzed till they grew sick,
 And Nature shook in a speechless passion ;
 And, swallowed up in the earthquake's spleen,
 The wonderful Spring of San Joaquin
 Vanished, and never more was seen !

Two days passed : the Mission folk
 Out of their rosy dream awoke.
 Some of them looked a trifle white ;
 But that, no doubt, was from earthquake fright.

Three days : there was sore distress,
Headache, nausea, giddiness.
Four days : faintings, tenderness
Of the mouth and fauces ; and in less Than one week—here the story closes ;
We won't continue the prognosis—
Enough that now no trace is seen
Of Spring or Mission of San Joaquin.

MORAL

You see the point ? Don't be too quick
To break bad habits : better stick,
Like the Mission folk, to your arsenic.

ON A CONE OF THE BIG TREES

Sequoia Gigantea

BROWN foundling of the Western wood,
Babe of primeval wildernesses !
Long on my table thou hast stood
Encounters strange and rude caresses ;
Perchance contented with thy lot,
Surroundings new and curious faces,
As though ten centuries were not
Imprisoned in thy shining cases !

Thou bring'st me back the halcyon days
Of grateful rest ; the week of leisure,
The journey lapped in autumn haze,
The sweet fatigue that seemed a pleasure,
The morning ride, the noonday halt,
The blazing slopes, the red dust rising,
And then—the dim, brown, columned vault,
With its cool, damp, sepulchral spicing.

Once more I see the rocking masts
 That scrape the sky, their only tenant
 The jay-bird that in frolic casts
 From some high yard his broad blue pennant.
 I see the Indian files that keep
 Their places in the dusty heather,
 Their red trunks standing ankle deep
 In moccasins of rusty leather.

I see all this, and marvel much
 That thou, sweet woodland waif, art able
 To keep the company of such
 As throng thy friend's—the poet's—table :
 The latest spawn the press hath cast—
 The 'modern Popes', 'the later Byrons'—
 Why e'en the best may not outlast
 Thy poor relation—Sempervirens.

Thy sire saw the light that shone
 On Mohammed's uplifted crescent,
 On many a royal gilded throne
 And deed forgotten in the present ;
 He saw the age of sacred trees
 And Druid groves and mystic larches,
 And saw from forest domes like these
 The builder bring his Gothic arches.

And must thou, foundling, still forego
 Thy heritage and high ambition,
 To lie full lowly and full low,
 Adjusted to thy new condition ?
 Not hidden in the drifted snows,
 But under ink-drops idly spattered,
 And leaves ephemeral as those
 That on thy woodland tomb were scattered.

Yet lie thou there, O friend ! and speak
The moral of thy simple story :
Though life is all that thou dost seek,
And age alone thy crown of glory—
Not thine the only germs that fail
The purpose of their high creation,
If their poor tenements avail
For worldly show and ostentation.

A SANITARY MESSAGE

LAST night, above the whistling wind,
I heard the welcome rain—
A fusillade upon the roof,
A tattoo on the pane :
The key-hole piped ; the chimney-top
A warlike trumpet blew ;
Yet, mingling with these sounds of strife,
A softer voice stole through.

‘ Give thanks, O brothers ! ’ said the voice,
‘ That He who sent the rains
Hath spared your fields the scarlet dew
That drips from patriot veins :
I’ve seen the grass on Eastern graves
In brighter verdure rise ;
But, oh ! the rain that gave it life
Sprang first from human eyes.

‘ I come to wash away no stain
Upon your wasted lea,
I raise no banders, save the odes
The forest waves to me :

Upon the mountain side, where Spring
Her farthest picket sets,
My réveille awakes a host
Of grassy bayonets.

' I visit every humble roof ;
I mingle with the low :
Only upon the highest peaks
My blessings fall in snow ;
Until in tricklings of the stream,
And drainings of the lea,
My unspent bounty comes at last
To mingle with the sea '.

And thus all night, above the wind,
I heard the welcome rain—
A fusillade upon the roof,
A tattoo on the pane :
The key-hole piped ; the chimney-top
A warlike trumpet blew ;
But, mingling with these sounds of strife,
This hymn of peace stole through.

THE COPPERHEAD

1864

THERE is peace in the swamp where the Copperhead sleeps,
Where the waters are stagnant, the white vapour
creeps,
Where the musk of magnolia hangs thick in the air,
And the lilies' phylacteries broaden in prayer ;

There is peace in the swamp, though the quiet
is death,
Though the mist is miasm, the upas-tree's breath,
Though no echo awakes to the cooing of doves—
There is peace : yes, the peace that the Copperhead loves !

Go seek him : he coils in the ooze and the drip
Like a thong idly flung from 'the slave-driver's whip ;
But beware the false footstep—the stumble that brings
A deadlier lash than the overseer swings.
Never arrow so true, never bullet so dread,
As the straight steady stroke of that hammer-shaped head ;
Whether slave, or proud planter, who braves
that dull crest,
Woe to him who shall trouble the Copperhead's rest !

Then why waste your labours, brave hearts
and strong men,
In tracking a trail to the Copperhead's den ?
Lay your axe to the cypress, hew open the shade
To the free sky and sunshine Jehovah has made ;
Let the breeze of the North sweep the vapours
away,
Till the stagnant lake ripples, the freed waters play ;
And then to your heel can you righteously doom
The Copperhead born of its shadow and gloom !

ON A PEN OF THOMAS STARR KING

THIS is the reed the dead musician dropped,
With tuneful magic in its sheath still hidden ;
The prompt allegro of its music stopped,
Its melodies unbidden.

But who shall finish the unfinished strain,
Or wake the instrument to awe and wonder,
And bid the slender barrel breathe again—
An organ-pipe of thunder ?

His pen ! what humbler memories cling about
Its golden curves ! what shapes and laughing graces
Slipped from its point, when his full heart went out
In smiles and courtly phrases !

The truth, half jesting, half in earnest flung ;
The word of cheer, with recognition in it ;
The note of alms, whose golden speech outrung
The golden gift within it.

But all in vain the enchanter's wand we wave :
No stroke of ours recalls his magic vision ;
The incantation that its power gave
Sleeps with the dead magician.

LONE MOUNTAIN

(Cemetery, San Francisco)

THIS is that hill of awe
That Persian Sindbad saw—
 The mount magnetic ;
And on its seaward face,
Scattered along its base,
 The wrecks prophetic.

Here come the argosies
Blown by each idle breeze,
 To and fro shifting ;
Yet to the hill of Fate
All drawing, soon or late—
 Day by day drifting ;

Drifting forever here
Barks that for many a year
 Braved wind and weather,
Shallops but yesterday
Launched on yon shining bay,
 Drawn all together.

This is the end of all :
Sun thyself by the wall,
 O poorer Hindbad !
Envy not Sindbad's fame :
Here comes alike the same,
 Hindbad and Sindbad.

CALIFORNIA'S GREETING TO SEWARD

1869

WE know him well ; no need of praise
Or bonfire from the windy hill
To light to softer paths and ways
The world-worn man we honour still ;

No need to quote those truths he spoke
That burned through years of war and shame
While History carves with surer stroke
Across our map his noon-day fame ;

No need to bid him show the scars
Of blows dealt by the Scæan gate,
Who live to pass its shattered bars,
And see the foe capitulate ;

Who lived to turn his slower feet
Toward the western setting sun,
To see his harvest all complete,
His dream fulfilled, his duty done—

The one flag streaming from the pole,
The one faith borne from sea to sea—
For such a triumph, and such goal,
Poor must our human greeting be.

Ah ! rather that the conscious land
In simpler ways salute the Man—
The tall pines bowing where they stand,
The bared head of El Capitan,

The tumult of the waterfalls,
Pohono's kerchief in the breeze,
The waving from the rocky walls,
The stir and rustle of the trees ;

Till lapped in sunset skies of hope,
In sunset lands by sunset seas,
The Young World's Premier treads the slope
Of sunset years in calm and peace.

THE TWO SHIPS

As I stand by the cross on the lone mountain's crest,

Looking over the ultimate sea,
In the gloom of the mountain a ship lies at rest,

And one sails away from the lea :
One spreads its white wings on a far-reaching track,

With pennant and sheet flowing free ;
One hides in the shadow with sails laid aback—
The ship that is waiting for me !

But lo, in the distance the clouds break away !

The Gate's glowing portals I see ;
And I hear from the outgoing ship in the bay

The song of the sailors in glee :
So I think of the luminous footprints that bore

The comfort o'er dark Galilee,
And wait for the signal to go to the shore,
To the ship that is waiting for me.

THE GODDESS

For the Sanitary Fair

‘WHO comes?’ The sentry’s warning cry
Rings sharply on the evening air :
Who comes? The challenge: no reply,
Yet something motions there.

A woman, by those graceful folds ;
A soldier, by that martial tread :
‘Advance three paces. Halt ! until
Thy name and rank be said’.

‘My name? Her name, in ancient song,
Who fearless from Olympus came :
Look on me ! Mortals know me best
In battle and in flame.’

‘Enough ! I know that clarion voice ;
I know that gleaming eye and helm ;
Those crimson lips—and in their dew
The best blood of the realm.

‘The young, the brave, the good and wise
Have fallen in thy curst embrace :
The juices of the grapes of wrath
Still stain thy guilty face.

‘My brother lies in yonder field,
Face downward to the quiet grass :
Go back ! he cannot see thee now ;
But here thou shalt not pass’.

A crack upon the evening air,
A wakened echo from the hill :
The watch-dog on the distant shore
Gives mouth, and all is still.

The sentry with his brother lies
Face downward on the quiet grass ;
And by him, in the pale moonshine,
A shadow seems to pass.

No lance or warlike shield it bears :
A helmet in its pitying hands
Brings water from the nearest brook,
To meet his last demands.

Can this be she of haughty mien,
The goddess of the sword and shield ?
Ah, yes ! The Grecian poet's myth
Sways still each battle-field.

For not alone that rugged war
Some grace or charm from beauty gains ;
But, when the godless' work is done,
The woman's still remains.

ADDRESS

Opening of the California Theatre, San Francisco, Jan. 19, 1870

BRIEF words, when actions wait, are well :
The prompter's hand is on his bell ;
The coming heroes, lovers, kings,
Are idly lounging at the wings ;

Behind the curtain's mystic fold
The glowing future lies unrolled—
And yet, one moment for the past;
One retrospect—the first and last.

'The world's a stage', the master said.
To-night a mightier truth is read:
Not in the shifting canvas screen,
The flash of gas, or tinsel sheen;
Not in the skill whose signal calls
From empty boards baronial halls;
But, fronting sea and curving bay,
Behold the players and the play.

Ah, friends! beneath your real skies
The actor's short-lived triumph dies:
On that broad stage of empire won,
Whose footlights were the setting sun,
Whose flats a distant background rose
In trackless peaks of endless snows;
Here genius bows, and talent waits
To copy that but One creates.

Your shifting scenes; the league of sand,
An avenue by ocean spanned;
The narrow beach of straggling tents,
A mile of stately monuments;
Your standard, lo! a flag unfurled,
Whose clinging folds clasp half the world—
This is your drama, built on facts,
With 'twenty years between the acts'.

One moment more: if here we raise
The oft-sung hymn of local praise,

Before the curtain facts must sway ;
Here waits the moral of your play.
Glassed in the poet's thought, you view
What money can, yet cannot do ;
The faith that soars, the deeds that shine,
Above the gold that builds the shrine.

And oh ! when others take our place,
And Earth's green curtain hides our face,
Ere on the stage, so silent now,
The last new hero makes his bow :
So may our deeds, recalled once more
In Memory's sweet but brief encore,
Down all the circling ages run,
With the world's plaudit of ' Well done ! '

THE LOST GALLEON

IN sixteen hundred and forty-one,
The regular yearly galleon,
Laden with odorous gums and spice,
India cottons and India rice,
And the richest silks of far Cathay,
Was due at Acapulco Bay.

Due she was, and over-due—
Galleon, merchandise, and crew,
Creeping along through rain and shine,
Through the tropics, under the line.
The trains were waiting outside the walls,
The wives of sailors thronged the town,
The traders sat by their empty stalls,
And the viceroy himself came down ;

The bells in the tower were all a-trip,
Te Deums were on each father's lip,
The limes were ripening in the sun
For the sick of the coming galleon.

All in vain. Weeks passed away,
And yet no galleon saw the bay :
India goods advanced in price ;
The governor missed his favourite spice ;
The señoritas mourned for sandal,
And the famous cottons of Coromandel ;
And some for an absent lover lost,
And one for a husband—Donna Julia,
Wife of the captain, tempest-tossed,
In circumstances so peculiar :
Even the fathers, unawares,
Grumbled a little at their prayers ;
And all along the coast that year
Votive candles were scarce and dear.

Never a tear bedims the eye
That time and patience will not dry ;
Never a lip is curved with pain
That can't be kissed into smiles again :
And these same truths, as far as I know,
Obtained on the coast of Mexico
More than two hundred years ago,
In sixteen hundred and fifty-one--
Ten years after the deed was done—
And folks had forgotten the galleon :
The divers plunged in the Gulf for pearls,
White as the teeth of the Indian girls ;
The traders sat by their full bazaars ;
The mules with many a weary load,

And oxen, dragging their creaking cars,
Came and went on the mountain road.

Where was the galleon all this while :
Wrecked on some lonely coral isle ?
Burnt by the roving sea-marauders,
Or sailing north under secret orders ?
Had she found the Anian passage famed,
By lying Moldonado claimed,
And sailed through the sixty-fifth degree
Direct to the North Atlantic sea ?
Or had she found the ' River of Kings ',
Of which De Fonté told such strange things
In sixteen forty ? Never a sign,
East or West or under the line,
They saw of the missing galleon ;
Never a sail or plank or chip,
They found of the long-lost treasure-ship,
Or enough to build a tale upon.
But when she was lost, and where and how,
Are the facts we're coming to just now.

Take, if you please, the chart of that day
Published at Madrid—por el Rey ;
Look for a spot in the old South Sea,
The hundred and eightieth degree
Longitude, west of Madrid : there,
Under the equatorial glare,
Just where the East and West are one,
You'll find the missing galleon—
You'll find the ' San Gregorio ', yet
Riding the seas, with sails all set,
Fresh as upon the very day
She sailed from Acapulco Bay.

How did she get there? What strange spell
Kept her two hundred years so well,
Free from decay and mortal taint?
What but the prayers of a patron saint?
A hundred leagues from Manilla town,
The 'San Gregorio's' helm came down;
Round she went on her heel, and not
A cable's length from a galliot
That rocked on the waters, just abreast
Of the galleon's course, which was westsou'-west.

Then said the galleon's commandante,
General Pedro Sobriente
(That was his rank on land and main,
A regular custom of old Spain),
'My pilot is dead of scurvy: may
I ask the longitude, time, and day?'
The first two given and compared;
The third—the commandante stared.

'The first of June? I make it second'.
Said the stranger 'Then you've wrongly reckoned;
I make it first: as you came this way,
You should have lost—d'ye see—a day;
Lost a day, as plainly see,
On the hundred and eightieth degree'.
'Lost a day?' 'Yes: if not rude,
When did you make east longitude?'
'On the ninth of May, our patron's day'.
'On the ninth?—you had no ninth of May!
Eighth and tenth was there; but stay'—
Too late; for the galleon bore away.

Lost was the day they should have kept—
Lost unheeded and lost unwept ;
Lost in a way that made search vain,
Lost in the trackless and boundless main ;
Lost like the day of Job's awful curse,
In his third chapter, third and fourth verse.
Wrecked was their patron's only day :
What would the holy fathers say ?

Said the Fray Antonio Estavan,
The galleon's chaplain, a learned man,
' Nothing is lost that you can regain :
And the way to look for a thing is plain
To go where you lost it, back again.
Back with your galleon till you see
The hundred and eightieth degree.
Wait till the rolling year goes round,
And there will the missing day be found ;
For you'll find—if computation's true—
That sailing east will give to you
Not only one ninth of May, but two—
One for the good saint's present cheer,
And one for the day we lost last year'.

Back to the spot sailed the galleon ;
Where, for a twelvemonth, off and on
The hundred and eightieth degree,
She rose and fell on a tropic sea ;
But lo ! when it came to the ninth of May,
All of a sudden becalmed she lay
One degree from that fatal spot,
Without the power to move a knot ;
And of course the moment she lost her way,
Gone was her chance to save that day.

To cut a lengthening story short,
She never saved it. Made the sport
Of evil spirits and baffling wind,
She was always before or just behind—
One day too soon, or one day too late ;
And the sun, meanwhile, would never wait ;
She had two eighths, as she idly lay,
Two tenths, but never a ninth of May.
And there she rides through two hundred years
Of dreary penance and anxious fears ;
Yet through the grace of the saint she served, •
Captain and crew are still preserved.

By a computation that still holds good,
Made by the Holy Brotherhood,
The ' San Gregorio ' will cross that line
In nineteen hundred and thirty-nine—
Just three hundred years to a day
From the time she lost the ninth of May.
And the folks in Acapulco town,
Over the waters, looking down,
Will see in the glow of the setting sun
The sails of the missing galleon,
And the royal standard of Philip Rey ;
The gleaming mast and glistening spar,
As she nears the surf of the outer bar.
A Te Deum sung on her crowded deck,
An odour of spice along the shore,
A crash, a cry from a shattered wreck—
And the yearly galleon sails no more,
In or out of the olden bay ;
For the blessed patron has found his day.

Such is the legend. Hear this truth :
Over the trackless past, somewhere,
Lie the lost days of our tropic youth,
Only regained by faith and prayer,
Only recalled by prayer and plaint.
Each lost day has its patron saint !

A SECOND REVIEW OF THE GRAND ARMY

I READ last night of the Grand Review
In Washington's chiefest avenue—
Two Hundred Thousand men in blue,
 I think they said was the number—
Till I seemed to hear their trampling feet,
The bugle blast and the drum's quick beat,
The clatter of hoofs in the stony street,
The cheers of people who came to greet,
And the thousand details that to repeat
 Would only my verse encumber—
Till I fell in a reverie, sad and sweet,
 And then to a fitful slumber.

When, lo ! in a vision I seemed to stand
In the lonely Capitol. On each hand
Far stretched the portico ; dim and grand
Its columns ranged, like a martial band
Of sheeted spectres whom some command
 Had called to a last reviewing.
And the streets of the city were white and bare ;
No footfall echoed across the square ;

But out of the misty midnight air
I heard in the distance a trumpet blare,
And the wandering night-winds seemed to bear
 The sound of a far tattooing.

Then I held my breath with fear and dread ;
For into the square, with a brazen tread,
There rode a figure whose stately head
 O'erlooked the review that morning,
That never bowed from its firm-set seat
When the living column passed its feet,
Yet now rode steadily up the street
 To the phantom bugle's warning :

Till it reached the Capitol square, and wheeled,
And there in the moonlight stood revealed
A well-known form that in State and field
 Had led our patriot sires ;
Whose face was turned to the sleeping
 camp,
Afar through the river's fog and damp,
That showed no flicker, nor waning lamp,
 Nor wasted bivouac fires.

And I saw a phantom army come,
With never a sound of fife or drum,
But keeping time to a throbbing hum
 Of wailing and lamentation :
The martyred heroes of Malvern Hill,
Of Gettysburg and Chancellorsville,
The men whose wasted figures fill
 The patriot graves of the nation.

And there came the nameless dead, the men
Who perished in fever swamp and fen,
The slowly-starved of the prison-pen.

And, marching beside the others,
Came the dusky martyrs of Pillow's fight,
With limbs enfranchised and bearing bright:
I thought—perhaps 'twas the pale moonlight—

They looked as white as their brothers!

And so all night marched the Nation's dead,
With never a banner above them spread,
Nor a badge, nor a motto brandishèd;
No mark—save the bare uncovered head

Of the silent bronze Reviewer;
With never an arch save the vaulted sky;
With never a flower save those that lie
On the distant graves—for love could buy
No gift that was purer or truer.

So all night long swept the strange array;
So all night long, till the morning grey,
I watched for one who had passed away,

With a reverent awe and wonder—
Till a blue cap waved in the length'ning line,
And I knew that one who was kin of mine
Had come; and I spake—and lo! that sign
Awakened me from my slumber.

Part II

BEFORE THE CURTAIN

BEHIND the footlights hangs the rusty baize,
A trifle shabby in the upturned blaze
Of flaring gas, and curious eyes that gaze.

The stage, methinks, perhaps is none too wide,
And hardly fit for royal Richard's stride,
Or Falstaff's bulk, or Denmark's youthful pride.

Ah, well ! no passion walks its humble boards ;
O'er it no king nor valiant Hector lords :
The simplest skill is all its space affords.

The song and jest, the dance and trifling play,
The local hit at follies of the day,
The trick to pass an idle hour away—

For these, no trumpets that announce the Moor,
No blast that makes the hero's welcome sure—
A single fiddle in the overture !

THE STAGE-DRIVER'S STORY

It was the stage-driver's story, as he stood with his back to the wheelers, Quietly flecking his whip, and turning his quid of tobacco ;
While on the dusty road, and blent with the rays of the moonlight,
We saw the long curl of his lash and the juice of tobacco descending.

' Danger ! Sir, I believe you,—indeed, I may say on that subject,
You your existence might put to the hazard
and turn of a wager.
I have seen danger ? Oh, no ! not me, sir,
indeed, I assure you :
'Twas only the man with the dog that is sitting alone in yon wagon.

' It was the Geiger Grade, a mile and a half from the summit :
Black as your hat was the night, and never a star in the heavens.
Thundering down the grade, the gravel and stones we sent flying
Over the precipice side—a thousand feet plumb to the bottom.

' Half-way down the grade I felt, sir, a thrilling and creaking,
 Then a lurch to one side, as we hung on the bank of the cañon ;
 Then, looking up the road, I saw, in the distance behind me,
 The off hind wheel of the coach just loosed from its axle, and following.

' One glance alone I gave, then gathered together my ribbons,
 Shouted, and flung them, outspread, on the straining necks of my cattle ;
 Screamed at the top of my voice, and lashed
 the air in my frenzy,
 While down the Geiger, Grade, on three wheels, the vehicle thundered.

' Speed was our only chance, when again
 came the ominous rattle :
 Crack, and another wheel slipped away, and was lost in the darkness.
Two only now were left ; yet such was our fearful momentum,
 Upright, erect, and sustained on two wheels,
 the vehicle thundered.

' As some huge boulder, unloosed from its rocky shelf on the mountain,
 Drives before it the hare and the timorous squirrel, far-leaping,
 So down the Geiger Grade rushed the Pioneer coach, and before it Leaped the wild horses, and shrieked in advance of the danger impending.

‘ But to be brief in my tale. Again, ere we came to the level,
 Slipped from its axle a wheel ; so that, to be plain in my statement,
 A matter of twelve hundred yards or more,
 as the distance may be,
 We travelled upon one wheel, until we drove up to the station.

‘ Then, sir, we sank in a heap : but picking myself from the ruins,
 I heard a noise up the grade ; and looking,
 I saw in the distance
 The three wheels following still, like moons on the horizon whirling,
 Till, circling, they gracefully sank on the road at the side of the station.

‘ This is my story, sir ; a trifle, indeed, I assure you.

Much more, perchance, might be said ; but
 I hold him, of all men, most lightly
 Who swerves from the truth in his tale—No,
 thank you—Well, since you are pressing,
 Perhaps I don’t care if I do : you may give me the same, Jim—no sugar’.

ASPIRING MISS DE LAINE

A Chemical Narrative

CERTAIN facts which serve to explain
 The physical charms of Miss Addie De Laine,
 Who, as the common reports obtain,
 Surpassed in complexion the lily and rose ;

With a very sweet mouth and a retroussé nose
 A figure like Hebe's, or that which revolves
 In a milliner's window, and partially solves
 That question which mentor and moralist pains,

If grace may exist minus feeling or brains.
 Of course the young lady had beaux by the score,

All that she wanted—what girl could ask more ?
 Lovers that sighed, and lovers that swore,
 Lovers that danced, and lovers that played,
 Men of profession, of leisure, and trade ;
 But one, who was destined to take the high part

Of holding that mythical treasure, her heart—
 This lover—the wonder and envy of town—
 Was a practising chemist—a fellow called Brown.

I might here remark that 'twas doubted by many,

In regard to the heart, if Miss Addie had any ;
 But no one could look in that eloquent face,
 With its exquisite outline, and features of grace,

And mark, through the transparent skin, how the tide

Ebbd and flowed at the impulse of passion or pride—

None could look, who believed in the blood's circulation

As argued by Harvey, but saw confirmation,
 That here, at least, Nature had triumphed o'er art,

And, as far as complexion went, she had a heart.

But this par parenthesis. Brown was the man
Preferred of all others to carry her fan, Hook her glove, drape her shawl, and do all that a belle

May demand of the lover she wants to treat well.

Folks wondered and stared that a fellow called
Brown—

Abstracted and solemn, in manner a clown,
Ill dressed, with a lingering smell of the shop—
Should appear as her escort at party or hop.
Some swore he had cooked up some villainous charm,

Or love philter, not in the regular Pharm-
Acopea, and thus, from pure malis prepense,
Had bewitched and bamboozled the young lady's sense ;

Others thought, with more reason, the secret to lie

In a magical wash or indelible dye ;
While Society, with its censorious eye
And judgment impartial, stood ready to damn
What wasn't improper as being a sham.
For a fortnight the townfolk had all been agog
With a party, the finest the season had seen,
To be given in honour of Miss Pollywog
Who was just coming out as a belle of sixteen.
The guests were invited : but one night before,
A carriage drew up at the modest back-door
Of Brown's lab'ratory ; and, full in the glare
Of a big purple bottle, some closely-veiled fair
Alighted and entered : to make matters plain,
Spite of veils and disguises—'twas Addie De Laine.

As a bower for true love, 'twas hardly the one
That a lady would choose to be wooed in or won :

No odour of rose or sweet jessamine's sigh
Breathed a fragrance to hallow their pledge like troth by,

Nor the balm that exhales from the odorous
thyme ;

But the gaseous effusions of chloride of lime,
And salts, which your chemist delights to explain

As the base of the smell of the rose and the drain.

Think of this, O ye lovers of sweetness ! and know

What you smell, when you snuff up Lubin or Pinaud.

I pass by the greetings, the transports and bliss,

Which, of course, duly followed a meeting like this,

And come down to business ;—for such the intent

Of the lady who now o'er the crucible leant,
In the glow of a furnace of carbon and lime,
Like a fairy called up in the new pantomime ;—
And give but her words as she coyly looked down,

In reply to the questioning glances of Brown :
' I am taking the drops, and am using the paste,

And the little white powders that had a sweet taste,

Which you told me would brighten the glance
of my eye,

And the depilatory, and also the dye,
And I'm charmed with the trial ; and now, my
dear Brown,

I have one other favour—now, ducky, don't frown—

Only one, for a chemist and genius like you
But a trifle, and one you can easily do.

Now listen : to-morrow, you know, is the night
Of the birthday soirée of that Pollywog fright ;
And I'm to be there, and the dress I shall wear
Is too lovely ; but '—' But what then, ma chère ? '
Said Brown, as the lady came to a full stop,
And glanced round the shelves of the little back shop.

' Well, I want—I want something to fill out the skirt

To the proper dimension, without being girt
In a stiff crinoline, or caged in a hoop
That shows through one's skirt like the bars of a coop ;

Something light, that a lady may waltz in, or polk,

With a freedom that none but you masculine folk

Ever know. For, however poor woman aspires, She's always bound down to the earth by these wires.

' Are you listening ? Nonsense ! don't stare like a spoon,

Idiotic ; some light thing, and spacious, and soon—

Something like—well, in fact—something like a balloon ! ’

Here she paused ; and here Brown, overcome by surprise,

Gave a doubting assent with still wondering eyes,

And the lady departed. But just at the door
Something happened—’tis true, it had happened before

In this sanctum of science—a sibilant sound,
Like some element just from its trammels
unbound,

Or two substances that their affinities found.
The night of the anxiously-looked-for soirée

Had come, with its fair ones in gorgeous array ;
With the rattle of wheels, and the tinkle of bells,

And the ‘ How do you do’s ’, and the ‘ Hope you are well’s ’ ;

And the crash in the passage, and last lingering look

You give as you hang your best hat on the hook ;

The rush of hot air as the door opens wide ;
And your entry—that blending of self-possessed
pride

And humility shown in your perfect-bred stare
At the folk, as if wondering how they got there ;
With other tricks worthy of Vanity Fair.

Meanwhile that safe topic, the heat of the room,

Already was losing its freshness and bloom ;
Young people were yawning, and wondering when
The dance would come off, and why didn’t it then :

When a vague expectation was filling the crowd,
Lo, the door swung its hinges with utterance proud !

And Pompey announced, with a trumpet-like strain,

The entrance of Brown and Miss Addie De
Laine.

She entered : but oh, how imperfect the verb
To express to the senses her movement superb !
To say that she ' sailed in ' more clearly might tell

Her grace in its buoyant and billowy swell.
Her robe was a vague circumambient space,
With shadowy boundaries made of point-lace.
The rest was but guess-work, and well might defy

The power of critical feminine eye
To define or describe : 'twere as futile to try
The gossamer web of the cirrus to trace,
Floating far in the blue of a warm summer sky.

'Midst the humming of praises and the glances of beaux.

That greet our fair maiden wherever she goes,
Brown slipped like a shadow, grim, silent, and black,

With a look of anxiety, close in her track.
Once he whispered aside in her delicate ear,
A sentence of warning—it might be of fear :
' Don't stand in the draught, if you value your life.'

(Nothing more—such advice might be given your wife

Or your sweetheart, in times of bronchitis and cough,

Without mystery, romance, or frivolous scoff.)
But hark to the music : the dance has begun.
The closely-draped windows wide open are flung ;

The notes of the piccolo, joyous and light,
Like bubbles burst forth on the warm summer
night.

Round about go the dancers ; in circles they fly ;

Trip, trip, go their feet as their skirts eddy by ;
And swifter and lighter, but somewhat too
plain,

Whisks the fair circumvolving Miss Addie De
Laine.

Taglioni and Cerito well might have pined
For the vigour and ease that her movements combined ;

E'en Rigelboche never flung higher her robe
In the naughtiest city that's known on the globe.

'Twas amazing, 'twas scandalous : lost in surprise,

Some opened their mouths, and a few shut their eyes.

But hark ! At the moment Miss Addie De
Laine,

Circling round at the outer edge of an ellipse,
Which brought her fair form to the window
again,

From the arms of her partner incautiously slips !

And a shriek fills the air, and the music is still,
And the crowd gather round where her partner
forlorn

Still frenziedly points from the wide windowsill

Into space and the night ; for Miss Addie was gone !

Gone like the bubble that bursts in the sun ;
Gone like the grain when the reaper is done ;
Gone like the dew on the fresh morning grass ;
Gone without parting farewell ; and alas !
Gone with a flavour of Hydrogen Gas.

* * * *

When the weather is pleasant, you frequently meet

A white-headed man slowly pacing the street ;
His trembling hand shading his lack-lustre eye,

Half blind with continually scanning the sky.
Rumour points him as some astronomical sage,

Reperusing by day the celestial page ;
But the reader, sagacious, will recognize Brown,
Trying vainly to conjure his lost sweetheart
down,

And learn the stern moral, this story must teach,
That Genius may lift its love out of its reach.

CALIFORNIA MADRIGAL

On the Approach of Spring

OH, come, my beloved ! from thy winter abode,
From thy home on the Yuba, thy ranch overflowed ;

For the waters have fallen, the winter has fled,
And the river once more has returned to its bed.

Oh, mark how the spring in its beauty is near !
How the fences and tules once more reappear !
How soft lies the mud on the banks of yon slough

By the hole in the levee the waters broke through !

All Nature, dear Chloris, is blooming to greet
The glance of your eye, and the tread of your feet ;

For the trails are all open, the roads are all free,
And the highwayman's whistle is heard on the lea.

Again swings the lash on the high mountain trail,

And the pipe of the packer is scenting the gale ;
The oath and the jest ringing high o'er the plain,
Where the smut is not always confined to the grain.

Once more glares the sunlight on awning and roof,

Once more the red clay's pulverised by the hoof,

Once more the dust powders the ' outsides ' with red,
Once more at the station the whisky is spread,
Then fly with me, love, ere the summer's begun,
And the mercury mounts to one hundred and one ;
Ere the grass now so green shall be withered and sear,
In the spring that obtains but one month in the year.

ST THOMAS

A Geographical Survey

(1868)

VERY fair and full of promise
Lay the island of St Thomas :
Ocean o'er its reefs and bars
Hid its elemental scars ;
Groves of cocoa-nut and guava
Grew above its fields of lava.
So the gem of the Antilles—
' Isles of Eden ', where no ill is—
Like a great green turtle slumbered
On the sea that it encumbered.

Then said William Henry Seward,
As he cast his eye to leeward,
' Quite important to our commerce
Is this Island of St Thomas '.
Said the Mountain ranges ' Thank'ee,
But we cannot stand the Yankee

O'er our scars and fissures poring,
In our very vitals boring,
In our sacred caverns prying,
All our secret problems trying—
Digging, blasting, with dynamit
Mocking all our thunders ! Damn it !
Other lands may be more civil,
Bust our lava crust if we will'.

Said the Sea—its white teeth gnashing
Through its coral-reef lips flashing :
' Shall I let this scheming mortal
Shut with stone my shining portal,
Curb my tide, and check my play,
Fence with wharves my shining bay ?
Rather let me be drawn out
In one awful waterspout !'
Said the black-browed Hurricane,
Brooding down the Spanish main,
' Shall I see my forces, zounds !
Measured by square inch and pounds,
With detectives at my back
When I double on my track,
And my secret paths made clear,
Published o'er the hemisphere
To each gaping, prying crew ?
Shall I ? Blow me if I do !'

So the Mountains shook and thundered,
And the Hurricane came sweeping,
And the people stared and wondered
As the Sea came on them leaping :
Each, according to his promise,
Made things lively at St Thomas.

Till one morn, when Mr Seward
 Cast his weather eye to leeward,
 There was not an inch of dry land
 Left to mark his recent island.
 Not a flagstaff or a sentry,
 Not a wharf or port of entry—
 Only—to cut matters shorter—
 Just a patch of muddy water
 In the open ocean lying,
 And a gull above it flying.

THE BALLAD OF MR COOKE

A Legend of the Cliff House, San Francisco

WHERE the sturdy ocean breeze
 Drives the spray of roaring seas
 That the Cliff-House balconies
 Overlook :
 There, in spite of rain that balked,
 With his sandals duly chalked,
 Once upon a tight-rope walked
 Mr Cooke.

But the jester's lightsome mien,
 And his spangles and his sheen,
 All had vanished, when the scene
 He forsook ;
 Yet in some delusive hope,
 In some vague desire to cope,
 One still came to view the rope
 Walked by Cooke.

* * * *

Though to that gymnastic feat
He no closer might compete
Than to strike a balance-sheet
In a book ;
Yet thenceforward, from that day,
He his figure would display
In some wild athletic way,
After Cooke.

On some household eminence,
On the clothes-line or a fence,
Over ditches, drains, and thence O'er a brook,
He, by high ambition led,
Ever walked and balanced ;
Till the people, wondering, said
' How like Cooke ! '

Step by step did he proceed,
Nerved by valour, not by greed,
And at last the crowning deed Undertook :

Misty was the midnight air,
And the cliff was bleak and bare,
When he came to do and dare
Just like Cooke.

Through the darkness, o'er the flow,
Stretched the line where he should go
Straight across, as flies the crow
Or the rook :
One wild glance around he cast ;
Then he faced the ocean blast,
And he strode the cable last Touched by Cooke.

Vainly roared the angry seas ;
 Vainly blew the ocean breeze ;
 But, alas ! the walker's knees
 Had a crook ;
 And before he reached the rock
 Did they both together knock,
 And he stumbled with a shock—
 Unlike Cooke !

Downward dropping in the dark,
 Like an arrow to its mark,
 Or a fish-pole when a shark
 Bites the hook,
 Dropped the pole he could not save,
 Dropped the walker, and the wave
 Swift ingulfed the rival brave
 Of J. Cooke !

Came a roar across the sea
 Of sea-lions in their glee,
 In a tongue remarkably
 Like Chinook ;
 And the maddened sea-gull seemed
 Still to utter, as he screamed,
 ' Perish thus the wretch who deemed Himself Cooke ! '

But, on misty moonlit nights,
 Comes a skeleton in tights,
 Walks once more the giddy heights
 He mistook ;
 And unseen to mortal eyes,
 Purged of grosser earthly ties,
 Now at last in spirit guise
 Outdoes Cooke.

Abbot ruddy, hermit pale,
Minstrel fraught with many a tale—
Are the actors that combine
In the Legends of the Rhine.

Bell-mouthed flagons round a board ;
Suits of armour, shield, and sword ;
Kerchief with its bloody stain ;
Ghosts of the untimely slain ;
Thunder-clap and clanking chain ;
Headsman's block and shining axe ;
Thumbscrews, crucifixes, racks ;
Midnight-tolling chapel bell,
Heard across the gloomy fell—
These, and other pleasant facts,
Are the properties that shine
In the Legends of the Rhine.

Maledictions, whispered vows
Underneath the linden boughs ;
Murder, bigamy, and theft ;
Travellers of goods bereft ;
Rapine, pillage, arson, spoil—
Everything but honest toil,
Are the deeds that best define
Every legend of the Rhine.

That Virtue always meets reward,
But quicker when it wears a sword ;
That Providence has special care
Of gallant knight and lady fair ;
That villains, as a thing of course,
Are always haunted by remorse—
Is the moral, I opine,
Of the Legends of the Rhine.

MRS JUDGE JENKINS

(Being the only Genuine Sequel to ' Maud Muller ')

MAUD MULLER, all that summer day,
Raked the meadow sweet with hay ;

Yet, looking down the distant lane,
She hoped the judge would come again.

But when he came with smile and bow,
Maud only blushed, and stammered ' Ha-ow ? '

And spoke of her ' pa ', and wondered whether
He'd give consent they should wed together.

Old Muller burst in tears, and then
Begged that the judge would lend him ' ten ' ;

For trade was dull, and wages low,
And the ' craps ', this year, were somewhat slow.

And ere the languid summer died,
Sweet Maud became the judge's bride.

But, on the day that they were mated,
Maud's brother Bob was intoxicated ;

And Maud's relations, twelve in all,
Were very drunk at the judge's hall.

And when the summer came again,
The young bride bore him babies twain.

And the judge was blest, but thought it strange
That bearing children made such a change :

For Maud grew broad and red and stout!
And the waist that his arm once clasped about
Was more than he now could span. And he Sighed as he pondered, ruefully,

How that which in Maud was native grace
In Mrs Jenkins was out of place ;

And thought of the twins, and wished that they Looked less like the man who raked the hay

On Muller's farm, and dreamed with pain
Of the day he wandered down the lane,

And, looking down that dreary track,
He half regretted that he came back.

For, had he waited, he might have wed
Some maiden fair and thoroughbred ;

For there be women fair as she,
Whose verbs and nouns do more agree.

Alas for maiden ! alas for judge !
And the sentimental—that's one-half ' fudge ' ;

For Maud soon thought the judge a bore,
With all his learning and all his lore.

And the judge would have bartered Maud's fair face .

For more refinement and social grace.

If, of all words of tongue and pen,
The saddest are, ' It might have been ' ,

More sad are these we daily see :
' It is, but hadn't ought to be ' .

AVITOR

An Aerial Retrospect

WHAT was it filled My youthful dreams,
In place of Greek or Latin themes,
Or beauty's wild, bewildering beams ?

Avitor ?

What visions and celestial scenes
I filled with aerial machines,
Montgolfier's and Mr Green's !

Avitor !

What fairy tales seemed things of course !
The roc that brought Sindbad across,
The Calender's own winged-horse !

Avitor !

How many things I took for facts—
Icarus and his conduct lax,
And how he sealed his fate with wax !

Avitor !

The first balloons I sought to sail,
Soap-bubbles fair, but all too frail,
Or kites—but thereby hangs a tail.

Avitor !

What made me launch from attic tall
A kitten and a parasol,
And watch their bitter, frightful fall ?

Avitor ?

What youthful dreams of high renown
Bade me inflate the parson's gown,
That went not up, nor yet came down ?

Avitor ?

My first ascent, I may not tell :
 Enough to know that in that well
 My first high aspirations fell.

Avitor !

My other failures let me pass :
 The dire explosions ; and, alas !
 The friends I choked with noxious gas.

Avitor !

For lo ! I see perfected rise
 The vision of my boyish eyes,
 The messenger of upper skies.

Avitor !

A WHITE-PINE BALLAD

RECENTLY with Samuel Johnson this occasion
 I improved,
 Whereby certain gents of affluence I hear were greatly moved ;
 But not all of Johnson's folly, although multiplied
 by nine,
 Could compare with Milton Perkins, late an owner in White Pine.

Johnson's folly—to be candid—was a wild desire to treat
 Every able male white citizen he met upon the street ;
 And there being several thousand—but this subject why pursue ?
 'Tis with Perkins, and not Johnson, that to-day
 we have to do.

No: not wild promiscuous treating, not the wine-cup's ruby flow,
But the female of his species brought the noble
Perkins low.
'Twas a wild poetic fervour, and excess of sentiment,
That left the noble Perkins in a week without a cent.

'Milton Perkins', said the Siren, 'not thy wealth do I admire,
But the intellect that flashes from those eyes of opal fire;
And methinks the name thou bearest surely cannot be misplaced,
And, embrace me, Mister Perkins!' Milton
Perkins her embraced.

But I grieve to state, that even then, as she was wiping dry
The tear of sensibility in Milton Perkins' eye,
She prigg'd his diamond bosom-pin, and that her wipe of lace
Did seem to have of chloroform a most suspicious trace.

Enough that Milton Perkins later in the night was found
With his head in an ash-barrel, and his feet upon the ground;
And he murmured 'Seraphina', and he kissed his hand, and smiled
On a party who went through him, like an un-resisting child.

MORAL

Now one word to Pogonippers, ere this subject
I resign,
In this tale of Milton Perkins—late an owner in White Pine—
You shall see that wealth and women are deceitful, just the same ;
And the tear of sensibility has salted many a claim.

WHAT THE WOLF REALLY SAID TO LITTLE RED RIDING-HOOD

WONDERING maiden, so puzzled and fair,
Why dost thou murmur and ponder and stare ?
Why are my eyelids so open and wild ?
Only the better to see with, my child !
Only the better and clearer to view
Cheeks that are rosy, and eyes that are blue.

Dost thou still wonder, and ask why these arms
Fill thy soft bosom with tender alarms,
Swaying so wickedly ?—are they misplaced,
Clasping or shielding some delicate waist ?
Hands whose coarse sinews may fill you with fear

Only the better protect you, my dear !

Little Red Riding-Hood, when in the street,
Why do I press your small hand when we meet ?
Why, when you timidly offered your cheek,
Why did I sigh, and why didn't I speak ?
Why, well : you see—if the truth must appear—
I'm not your grandmother, Riding-Hood, dear.

THE RITUALIST

By a Communicant of ' St James's '

HE wore, I think, a chasuble, the day when first we met ;

A stole and snowy alb likewise : I recollect it yet.
He called me ' daughter ', as he raised his jewelled hand to bless ;

And then, in thrilling undertones, he asked,
' Would I confess ? '

O mother, dear ! blame not your child, if then on bended knees

I dropped, and thought of Abelard, and also Eloise ;

Or when, beside the altar high, he bowed before the pyx,

I envied that seraphic kiss he gave the crucifix.

The cruel world may think it wrong, perhaps may deem me weak,

And, speaking of that sainted man, may call his conduct ' cheek ' ;

And, like that wicked barrister whom Cousin
Harry quotes,

May term his mixèd chalice ' grog ', his vestments
' petticoats '.

But, whatsoe'er they do or say, I'll build a Christian's hope

On incense and on altar-lights, on chasuble and cope.

Let others prove, by precedent, the faith that they profess :

' His can't be wrong ' that's symbolized by such becoming dress.

A MORAL VINDICATOR

IF Mr Jones, Lycurgus B.,
Had one peculiar quality,
'Twas his severe advocacy
Of conjugal fidelity.

His views of heaven were very free,
His views of life were painfully
Ridiculous ; but fervently
He dwelt on marriage sanctity.

He frequently went on a spree ;
But in his wildest revelry,
On this especial subject he Betrayed no ambiguity.

And though at times Lycurgus B.
Did lay his hands not lovingly
Upon his wife, the sanctity
Of wedlock was his guaranty.

But Mrs Jones declined to see
Affairs in the same light as he,
And quietly got a decree
Divorcing her from that L. B.

And what did Jones, Lycurgus B.,
With his known idiosyncrasy ?

He smiled—a bitter smile to see—
And drew the weapon of Bowie.

He did what Sickles did to Key—
What Cole on Hiscock wrought, did he ;
In fact, on persons twenty-three
He proved the marriage sanctity.

The counsellor who took the fee,
The witnesses and referee,
The judge who granted the decree,
Died in that wholesale butchery.

And then when Jones, Lycurgus B.
Had wiped the weapon of Bowie,
Twelve jurymen did instantly
Acquit and set Lycurgus free.

SONGS WITHOUT SENSE

For the Parlour and Piano

I : THE PERSONIFIED SENTIMENTAL

AFFECTION'S charm no longer gilds
The idol of the shrine ;
But cold Oblivion seeks to fill
Regret's ambrosial wine.
Though Friendship's offering buried lies
'Neath cold Aversion's snow,
Regard and Faith will ever bloom
Perpetually below.

I see thee whirl in marble halls,
In Pleasure's giddy train ;
Remorse is never on that brow,
Nor Sorrow's mark of pain.
Deceit has marked thee for her own ;
Inconstancy the same ;
And Ruin wildly sheds its gleam
Athwart thy path of shame.

II : THE HOMELY PATHETIC

THE dews are heavy on my brow ;
My breath comes hard and low ;
Yet, mother, dear, grant one request,
Before your boy must go.
Oh ! lift me ere my spirit sinks,
And ere my senses fail :
Place me once more, O mother, dear !
Astride the old fence-rail.

The old fence-rail, the old fence-rail !
How oft these youthful legs,
With Alice' and Ben Bolt's were hung
Across those wooden pegs.
'Twas there the nauseating smoke
Of my first pipe arose :
O mother, dear ! these agonies
Are far less keen than those.

I know where lies the hazel dell,
Where simple Nellie sleeps ;
I know the cot of Nettie Moore,
And where the willow weeps.

I know the brook-side and the mill :
But all their pathos fails
Beside the days when once I sat
Astride the old fence-rails.

III : SWISS AIR

I'm a gay tra, la, la,
With my fal, la, la, la,
And my bright—
And my light—
Tra, la, le. [Repeat]

Then laugh, ha, ha, ha,
And ring, ting, ling, ling,
And sing fal, la, la,
La, la, le. [Repeat]

GRANDMOTHER TENTERDEN

(Massachusetts Shore, 1800)

I MIND it was but yesterday—
The sun was dim, the air was chill ;
Below the town, below the hill,
The sails of my son's ship did fill—
My Jacob, who was cast away.

He said ' God keep you, mother, dear ',
But did not turn to kiss his wife ;
They had some foolish, idle strife ;
Her tongue was like a two-edged knife,
And he was proud as any peer.

Howbeit that night I took no note
Of sea nor sky, for all was drear ;
I marked not that the hills looked near,
Nor that the moon, though curved and clear,
Through curd-like scud did drive and float.

For with my darling went the joy
Of autumn woods and meadows brown ;
I came to hate the little town ;
It seemed as if the sun went down
With him, my only darling boy.

It was the middle of the night,
The wind it shifted west-by-south ;
It piled high up the harbour mouth ;
The marshes, black with summer drouth,
Were all abroad with sea-foam white.

It was the middle of the night,
The sea upon the garden leapt,
And my son's wife in quiet slept,
And I, his mother, waked and wept,
When lo ! there came a sudden light.

And there he stood ! his seaman's dress
All wet and dripping seemed to be ;
The pale blue fires of the sea
Dripped from his garments constantly—
I could not speak through cowardness.

' I come through night and storm ' he said ;
' Through storm and night and death ' said he,
' To kiss my wife, if it so be
That strife still holds 'twixt her and me,
For all beyond is Peace ' he said.

'The sea is His, and He who sent
 The wind and wave can soothe their strife ;
 And brief and foolish is our life'.
 He stooped and kissed his sleeping wife,
 Then sighed, and, like a dream, he went.

Now, when my darling kissed not me,
 But her—his wife—who did not wake,
 My heart within me seemed to break ;
 I swore a vow ! nor thenceforth spake
 Of what my clearer eyes did see.

And when the slow weeks brought him not,
 Somehow we spake of aught beside ;
 For she—her hope upheld her pride ;
 And I, in me all hope had died,
 And my son passed as if forgot.

It was about the next spring-tide,
 She pined and faded where she stood ;
 Yet spake no word of ill or good ;
 She had the hard, cold Edwards' blood
 In all her veins—and so she died.

One time I thought, before she passed,
 To give her peace, but ere I spake
 Methought 'He will be first to break
 The news in heaven', and for his sake
 I held mine back until the last.

And here I sit, nor care to roam ;
 I only wait to hear his call ;
 I doubt not that this day, next fall,
 Shall see me safe in port ; where all
 And every ship at last comes home.

And you have sailed the Spanish main,
 And knew my Jacob? . . . Eh! Mercy!
 Ah, God of wisdom! hath the sea
 Yielded its dead to humble me!

My boy! . . . my Jacob! . . . Turn again!

THE IDYL OF BATTLE HOLLOW

(War of the Rebellion, 1864)

No, I won't—thar, now, so! And it ain't, nothin'—no!

And thar's nary to tell that you folks yer don't know;

And it's 'Belle, tell us, do!' and it's 'Belle, is it true?'

And 'Wot's this yer yarn of the Major and you?'

Till I'm sick of it all—so I am, but I s'pose

Thet is nothin' to you. . . . Well then, listen!
 yer goes:

It was after the fight, and around us all night
 Thar was poppin' and shootin' a powerful sight;

And the niggers had fled, and Aunt Chlo' was abed,

And Pinky and Milly were hid in the shed;

And I ran out at daybreak and nothin' was nigh

But the growlin' of cannon low down in the sky.

And I saw not a thing as I ran to the spring,
But a splintered fence rail and a broken-down swing,
And a bird said ' Kerchee ! ' as it sat on a tree,
As if it was lonesome and glad to see me ;
And I filled up my pail and was risin' to go,
When up comes the Major a canterin' slow.

When he saw me he drew in his reins, and then threw
On the gate-post his bridle, and—what does he do
But come down where I sat ; and he lifted his hat,
And he says—well, thar ain't any need to tell that—
'Twas some foolishness, sure, but it 'mounted to this,
That he asked for a drink, and he wanted—
a kiss.

Then I said (I was mad), ' For the water, my lad, You're too big and must stoop ; for a kiss, it's as bad—
You ain't near big enough '. And I turned in a huff,
When that Major he laid his white hand on my cuff,
And he says ' You're a trump ! Take my pistol, don't fear !
But shoot the next man that insults you, my dear '.

Then he stooped to the pool, very quiet and cool,
Leavin' me with that pistol stuck there like a fool,

When thar flashed on my sight a quick glimmer of light

From the top of the little stone-fence on the right,
And I knew 'twas a rifle, and back of it all
Rose the face of that bushwhacker, Cherokee Hall!

Then I felt in my dread that the moment the head

Of the Major was lifted, the Major was dead;
And I stood still and white, but Lord! gals, in spite

Of my care, that derved pistol went off in my fright!

Went off—true as Gospel!—and strangest of all
It actooally injured that Cherokee Hall.

Thet's all—now, go 'long. Yes, some folks thinks it's wrong.

And thar's some wants to know to what side I belong;

But I says 'Served him right!' and I go, all my might,

In love or in war, for a fair, stand-up fight;

And as for the Major—sho! gals, don't you know

Thet—Lord!—thar's his step in the garden below.
